'PHONE GRAFT HIDDEN; BOARD BARS PAYROLLS

Highway Commissioners Declare Trust's Books Will Not Assist in Rate Hearing—Papers Subsidized?

Determined, apparently, to hide the inside facts as to the graft in connection with the Telephone Trust, the Highway Commissioners, before whom the hearing for lower rates is being held, to-day flatly refused to allow the payrolls of the company to be introduced as evidence. The commissioners issued this decision:

"It is the opinion of the commissioners that the payrolls will not assist them in determining the rate. Hence they will not be accepted as part of the record. The commissioners, however, will receive any evidence that any individual on the payroll, or elsewhere, has received money improperly, or has not rendered an equivalent."

Newspapers Subsidized.

Following this refusal of the commissioners, Attorney Whitman, who represents the Boston Post in presenting the petition, sprung a sensation by presenting what purported to be a voucher of the man representing the telephone company, who said been employed to subsidized newspapers. The voucher was as follows:

"Paid S. D. Butler for subsidizing Pittsfield newspapers, $150.

"For cigars and entertainments, $6.50.

"Total, $156.50.

Jasper N. Keller, one of the managers of the company, was on the witness stand when Mr. Whitman produced this voucher. He denied any knowledge of it. The lawyers for the telephone company laughed and in that way tried to dissolve the document produced by Mr. Whitman.

Refuse Publicity.

Lawyer Powers, for the trust, during a long discussion of the payrolls with lawyer Whitman, said that Mr. Whitman could examine the sub-foremen of the company at the company's office, but they would not consent to have the result given to the newspapers.

"We should like to know about the contents of the frank book," Mr. Whitman asked Mr. Keller.

"We conclude," interrupted Lawyer Hall for the trust, "that this book shows that franks amounting to $900 have been issued."

Lawyer Powers: "Why, I have a frank book and I also have a pass on the street railway. I have not used them. Lots of people have franks who do not use them. I object to the examination of the frank book."

"Don't Need Evidence."

Chairman McClintock—"We decline to have it submitted."

Commissioner Parker—"We are satisfied with our own methods of conducting this examination."

Chairman McClintock—"We don't need any evidence on the frank book at all."

Attorney Whitman—"Mr. Powers said last night that the commissioners had said they had enough evidence."

"I think perhaps, that Mr. Powers is taking too much on himself," responded Chairman McClintock. "Mr. Powers does not speak for the board."

"We want to have this hearing close as soon as possible. I don't presume to speak for the commission," said Mr. Powers.

Could Get His Office.

Here Mr. Whitman discovered that he had forgotten some of his memoranda, and at the very moment when the husbandry service of the telephone company was being discussed the board received an object lesson, for Mr. Whitman could not get his office on the telephone. After vainly trying to get his office on the telephone he finally had to send a messenger.

Q.—(by Mr. Whitman)—Do you maintain a press department? A.—Yes.

Q.—Who attends to the special work? A.—Mr. Feeney.

Q.—How long has he done so? A.—I don't know.

Q.—Last year there was a bill of $32,000 for special press work. Who had charge of that bill? A.—Superintendent H. M. Feeney.

Q.—What does the department do? A.—They advertise in newspapers.

Q.—Who gives the orders? A.—Mr. Owen is in charge.

Q.—How far have you paid for reading matter? A.—I have no knowledge.

Q.—Who would know? A.—I don't know.

Why Your Telephone Costs So Much

How the New England Telephone Company's payrolls are padded in order to carry the graft that has been paid out to and through those whom General Superintendent Dresser calls "influential people."

"I should say that in our conduit department, ten per cent of the payroll expense was formerly 'excess labor,' that it was paid to men who did not render any real service to the Company. That class of work was confined to foremen, subforemen and watchmen.—General Superintendent George M. Dresser of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company.

Laura Matthews, Whose Death Mystery Led to Man's Suicide

LAURA MATTHEWS SLAIN; CRIES MILLIONAIRE FIANCE

Chicago Autoist Declares Rumbaugh's Suicide Proves Beautiful Actress Did Not Die by Own Hand.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., Aug. 1.—Despite the finding of the coroner that Laura Matthews, the handsome actress who was found dead near this city on Monday, was a suicide, dispatches from Chicago say that the girl's mother, Mrs. Jennie Matthews, and C. A. Coey, the millionaire automobilist to whom Miss Matthews is said to have been engaged, declare that in the suicide of Amos R. Rumbaugh lies the proof that the young woman was really murdered.

Coey, in Chicago, and Mrs. Matthews, who had gone there from Kansas City, after a long consultation, made joint accusations against Rumbaugh.

Rumbaugh, the Pennsylvania veteran who served with distinction in the Philippines and who deserted his wife and children in Mt. Pleasant, Pa., was infatuated with Miss Matthews.

Tells of Girl's Suicide.

According to Miss Lettie Green, who nursed the pretty actress, Rumbaugh told her that he and Laura were driving in a closed carriage on Friday, when Laura told him all about her friendship with Coey. He said the girl then drew a pistol from her dress and tried to kill herself, but that he prevented the deed.

Rumbaugh, according to Miss Green, said that he and Miss Matthews had planned to be married and then go abroad. He said that he had engaged a section in a sleeping car and that they were to have left for New York on Monday.

The nurse said that Rumbaugh appeared to be much excited when he heard of Miss Matthews's death, and excitedly talked of going to Chicago and seeking revenge upon Coey.

At the inquest Miss Green testified that Coey had sent her several telegrams after the tragedy, one of them reading:

"Will meet you at the train. Forward letters. Keep your own counsel."

She admitted that she had received $345 from Coey.

J. L. Kingsbury, one of the bell boys at the Acacia Hotel, told of fragments of a telephone conversation he overheard between Miss Matthews and some man last Sunday. He cut in on the wire in time to hear a man's voice say: "Kill you from ambush." Miss Matthews said "What?" And then the man repeated his threat.

In Miss Matthews's room thirty-seven sealed love letters from Millionaire Coey were found. They were all read before the coroner. One of them, undated, reads:

"If you can come back to me the same as you left—you know what I mean—we will both be happy. I feel my need for you more than I thought I did. I will overlook the past.

"Live for me alone and I will do the same. I will, perhaps, be able to save you from the human vultures. You must give up this worldly life. Regain your reputation."

Coey wrote on March 16: "Laura, I cannot get along without you. I will live for you if you will live for me. Sure I love you and you for me. When will you come?"

"Lonely and Sad."

Another letter dated August 10, 1906, says: "Lonely and sad without you. Be a good girl."

In another letter Coey gives kindly advice and begs Miss Matthews to reform and come back to him. On learning of Miss Matthews's death Coey telegraphed $200 for burial expenses.

According to Miss Green, the nurse, Dr. H. E. Thomas of the famous 101 ranch, near Bliss, Okla., one of Coey's millionaire friends, engaged her to attend Miss Matthews, sent her here and paid her salary and expenses. It appears that Coey also sent Miss Matthews substantial sums of money on various occasions since her arrival on June 21.

Miss Matthews's body will be sent for burial to Kansas City, where her mother and a sister live.

STRANGLER STILL FREE FIVE WOMEN VICTIMS; HUNT "MAN GORILLA"

Man Arrested at Verplanck, N. Y., as Suspect Joseph Girard Not the Long Sought Coal Heaver—New York Terror Grows.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Despite the fact that two men already have been arrested in connection with the death of the young woman who was strangled to death, mutilated and her body secreted in the cellar of No. 204 East Ninetieth street, the police declare that "Jack the Ripper" is still at large, and are continuing their efforts to run down Joseph Girard, the powerful coal heaver, accused of three atrocious murders.

Joseph Kusmicho, who was taken into custody after having admitted to Police Captain Martens that he was with the dead girl forty-eight hours before the crime was unearthed, is still a prisoner at police headquarters, but mantains that he is innocent, and most of the detectives believe he is telling the truth.

The second suspect was taken at Verplanck, N. Y., by a local constable, who wired that his description tallied with that of the missing "gorilla-man," Girard. Lieutenant Frank Bruesser, who knew the coal heaver well, went to the little town, and in a short time got in communication with Captain Martens. He said the suspect was not the man wanted, and the man was immediately discharged.

Searching River Front.

The police of the East Eighty-eighth street station, with several score of detectives, spent all of last night in another search along the river front. They examined every coal boat and questioned hundreds of persons in the vain hope that some clue could be obtained as to the whereabouts of Girard.

Fully three dozen half-distracted mothers called at the morgue during the early hours of the day in an endeavor to identify the girl. The police records show that more than fifteen young women are on the list of those who have disappeared and fearful that their children have met the fate that has befallen so many young women in Greater New York and vicinity.

Kusmicho was arraigned in the Harlem Police Court to-day.

Meanwhile the body of another woman victim, her body more terribly mutilated than those found earlier in the week, was washed up at South Beach, Staten Island.

Two other men, Frank Gravell, a peanut vender, and Peter Cuver, a laborer, arrested and held as witnesses, appeared to-day in the Harlem Police Court. Both of the latter identified a picture of the murdered woman and said that they had seen her enter the premises where Kusmicho is watchman, last Sunday, and that they had not seen her come out.

Kusmicho, when confronted with a picture of the strangler's victim, admitted that he had seen her and talked with her on Sunday morning, but when taken into the morgue user and shown the body he denied that it was the same woman and declared that he had never seen the dead woman before.

The Harlem business man whose name the police refuse to divulge called on Captain Martens, of whom he is an old friend, and told that from description of the murdered woman, he believed he had seen her on Sunday in the vacant lot of the One Hundred and Twenty Ninth street house. He said that she was lying on the grass and seemed to be very weak, as she did not even raise her head as he passed. The watchman, he said, was standing near, and when he saw that he was seen, turned and ran back into the old house, which he is guarding, preparatory to its being torn down.

Identified at Morgue.

Upon hearing this statement Captain Martens sent his informant to the morgue, where he made a positive identification both of the body and of the clothes. He was taken to the One Hundred and Twenty Ninth street house, where he pointed out Kusmicho as the man he saw in her company, and the watchman was then arrested.

As the detectives were preparing to take the prisoner away, standing on the corner, gave one frightened glance at the officers dragging their prisoner and then started to run. This aroused the suspicions of the police, who gave chase and captured them.

At the police station all three were put through the third degree by Inspector Dillon and all of them admitted that on Sunday they had seen the woman whose picture they were shown.

Kusmicho said that the woman had been hanging around where he was watching on Sunday night and part of Sunday. He said that on Sunday afternoon he had ordered her to leave and that she went away, going eastward on One Hundred and twenty-ninth street.

RUSH WARSHIPS TO END BUTCHERY IN MOROCCO

TWELVE EUROPEANS TORTURED TO DEATH; RELIGIOUS WAR THREATENED.

TANGIER, Morocco, Aug. 1.—The French cruiser Galilee has arrived at Casa Blanca to protect Europeans who are in danger from the uprising of natives and a threatened holy war to drive out all foreigners. Notice has been served on the Bashaw that he must protect Europeans under penalty of losing his own head.

With the arrival of the cruiser the situation at Casa Blanca is somewhat improved. It is believed she can protect all Europeans there. With 20,000 Mussulmans encamped about the town and agitators preaching the holy war throughout the country the general situation, however, is critical.

It is feared only a great display of force will prevent the Christians and the natives who invaded Casa Blanca yesterday and murdered twelve Europeans. Two of the victims were burned alive. Others were stabbed and stoned.

These helpless victims, dying from the injuries inflicted, were tortured by children, who amused themselves by gouging out the eyes of the sufferers and driving splinters under their finger and toe nails or into their flesh. The natives encouraged the savage youngsters in this torture.

While these outrages were being perpetrated the Bashaw's soldiers stood about without raising a hand to help the victims.

Despite the arrival of the Galilee, foreigners are in a state of terror. To-day scores boarded British and German steamships in the harbor.

TWO MORE WARSHIPS SENT.

TOULON, France, August 1.—The cruisers Conde and Du Chayle have been ordered, to sail this afternoon for Morocco to assist in putting down the rebellious tribesmen at Casa Blanca and preventing further outbreaks against Europeans.

TROOPS KILL OR WOUND 30 RIOTERS AT LODZ, POLAND

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 1.—Troops in quelling riots at Lodz to-day fired on the mobs, killing and wounding thirty persons.

THE WEATHER.

Unsettled weather with scattered showers to-night and Friday; light variable winds.

High tide, 4:54 a. m.; 5:25 p. m.

Sun rises, 4:36; sets 7:05.

Moon rises, 11:36 p. m.

A thorough search of the room occupied by Kusmicho failed to reveal any incriminating evidence.

The identity of the woman is still as much of a mystery as ever. The prisoners, all denied that they knew who she was or where she lived. The police say, however, that her identity will be established before long. They believe that she lived in the neighborhood of the One Hundred and Twenty-ninth street house and that a house to house canvass of that vicinity will reveal her name and the place she lived.

Young Woman Missing.

At Happyland, only a short distance from where the discovery was made by Thomas McMahon, it is said that the body may prove to be that of a young woman who disappeared in a boat with two men about a month ago. The boat, with its three occupants, left the beach late at night and was found next day upturned. During the night screams of a woman are said to have been heard far out on the water. Neither the girl nor her companions have been seen at the resort again.

It is the belief of the authorities that the trunk belongs to the body of a young but fully developed girl and weighed about 125 pounds. The superficial examination made failed to reveal any marks that might lead to identification.

EIGHT MEN KILLED BY BURST LOCOMOTIVES

FIVE LOSE LIVES IN OHIO EXPLOSION AND THREE IN MISSOURI.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

URBANA, O., Aug. 1.—When a freight engine on the Indianapolis division of the Pennsylvania Railroad blew up at Urbana to-day we railroaders lost their lives and two were seriously if not fatally injured.

The dead men are:

Chamberlain, Lou, Columbus.

Welsert, Carey, reman, Columbus.

Stuart, fireman, Columbus.

Two men, unknown.

The other injured were brakemen of the train crew. The cause of the explosion is said to have been due to a fault in the escape steam valve. The big engine was blown to pieces and the explosion shook Urbana from end to end, startling the inhabitants from their sleep.

BRECKENRIDGE, Mo., Aug. 1.—Three men were killed and a fourth is dying as the result of the blowing up of Burlington locomotive No. 21, drawing a freight train, two miles east of here. The dead are:

Hall, Milburn, head brakeman.

Brewer, Patrick, reman.

Student reman, name not known.

The engineer, who is dying, is Samuel Roberts.

The explosion was heard three miles away. What is left of the boiler is in the ditch on one side of the track and the tracks are in a ell on the other. Four cars are derailed and that nearest the engine was badly smashed. The cause of the explosion is not known.

FINED $20 FOR ASSAULT.

Charged with having murderously assaulted Francisco Raso over the head with an iron bar on July 13, while both men were working for the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, Luigi Liatta was to-day fined $20.

FIRST OLD HOME WEEK ROBBERY

While Herbert A. Whiting and his family were watching the Old Home Week fireworks last night, thieves entered their home, at No. 274 Seaver street, Roxbury, and stole a gold watch and other jewelry, all valued at $65. Entrance was gained by breaking a pane of glass in one of the front windows. This is the first robbery reported to the police since the Old Home Week celebration commenced.

GET SWORDFISH OF 1,000 LBS.

The largest swordfish ever brought to Boston was exhibited to-day at a wharf. It was captured off George's Bank by the fishing schooner Oliver Hutchins and weighed 1,000 pounds. The fish measured fourteen feet from sword tip to the tip of its tail. It was shipped to a Brockton concern.

GEORGIA HERO'S BODY SENT TO 'FRISCO HOME

After having been buried in the cemetery of the Naval Hospital at Chelsea as the one martyr hero of the battleship Georgia whose relatives could not be located, the body of Benjamin Kreiger was taken up to-day and shipped to his father, Nathan Kreiger, at 1401 Camp 25, No. 14 Point Lobos avenue, San Francisco.

Kreiger, who was one of the youngest sailors on the battleship, enlisted from Brooklyn, N. Y., under the name of George Miller. Efforts were made to locate his parents, but it was not until some of his shipmates furnished his right name that their former address in Brooklyn was found. The letter had been sent to San Francisco and the Navy Department finally succeeded in locating him there.

FRANKLIN HOME SITE MECCA OF VISITORS.

Among the many points of historic interest being visited by visitors during Boston's Old Home Week is one that is attracting unusual attention. It is the old Franklin homestead site at the corner of Union and Hanover streets, the builders for the last twenty years occupied by the Union Hat Company, one of Hub's largest business concerns.

For Old Home Week the company has a novel display, as patriotic as it is historical. The building has changed a great deal since Franklin's days, but it has never been remodeled so as to lose its identity.

CROWDS WILL DIG SAND FOR BURIED GOLD

Great Fun at Wonderland Sunday During Search for Hidden Treasure.

NEW RED DOLLAR GIRL.

There will be great fun in Wonderland and along the silver sands of Revere Beach next Sunday when the fifth great hunt for the SUNDAY AMERICAN'S Buried Treasure takes place.

Here are some facts to remember:

No. 1.—$220 in gold is to be hidden, $20 more than on any previous Sunday.

No. 2.—There will be a New Red Dollar Sign Girl, and when her identity is made known there will be a great surprise. She will have $50 in gold for some one.

No. 3.—A mysterious Red Dollar envelope will reach some one in an unique manner. It will contain $20 in gold.

No. 4.—The Red Dollar envelopes next Sunday are found in an old way by Tom Mason, hero of the thrilling Red Dollar Sign serial printed on the Buried Treasure page of the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN. Get the paper and read that story. It will tell you how to get the gold.

No. 5.—Tickets that will admit to the Fire and Flames and most of the other shows of Wonderland will be hidden. There will be 150 of them.

No. 6.—See next Sunday's AMERICAN for the original Red Dollar Sign Girl's picture and her name, address and other information worth having. It will help in finding the New Girl.

BANNER WEEK AT REVERE; GET YOUR AMERICAN COUPON

This is a banner week along the waterfront at Revere. Amusement managers and merchants who suffered such a set back from the backward weather in Spring and early Summer are making up for lost time. This is true also of the attractions for which the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN is publishing half fare coupons each week. The places are Rough Rider Hippodrome, Palace Merry-Go-Round, Hurley's Hurdlers, Fairyland Theatre, Theatre Comique, Automobile Race, Mystic Hill, Holloway Skating Rink, Roller Coaster and Musical Railway.

"Good business all the time," is the word from the Beautiful Crystal Lake Park where woods, lake and amusement enterprises blend so wonderfully. The BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN will publish a list of tickets entitling holders to a launch ride around the lake, admission to the theatre and a five-cent try at the shooting gallery, a total free ticket of twenty-five cents.

The next Lexington Park ticket for admission will be published next Sunday admitting holders to the groves, fun-explorations and Zoo.

William Mack, of No. 92 Charlestown street, Boston, announced today that he had found one of the Red Dollar envelopes hidden at Nantasket last Sunday. It contained $5 in gold. There are still two $10 dollar gold pieces of the $200 in gold hidden on the beach and in Paragon Park, unaccounted for. Maybe they are there yet awaiting a finder.

JAPS KILL AND WOUND 40 IN KOREAN RIOTS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—The disarmament of the Korean army by the Japanese has provoked hostilities, in the fighting that followed to-day forty Koreans were killed or wounded. The casualties among the Japanese were slight.

This information comes to the State Department in a dispatch from United States Consul-General Sammons at Seoul.

$20,000 HID IN DEATH PUZZLE

WOONSOCKET, S. D., Aug. 1.—Upon determination of the question whether, when a tornado blew down their house, R. M. Atkinson or his wife died first, depends the distribution of an estate worth $20,000.

If the husband expired before the wife, then her descendants are entitled to her one-third of the estate, that being the widow's dower. But if she died first, all of the property goes to his direct heirs. The tornado destroyed their home near here, July 20, and when neighbors found them they were dead, including their nine-year-old daughter.

MYSTERY IN AUTOISTS' ATTACK ON FARMERS

SCHOOLHOUSE COMMISSION MEMBERS DENY KNOWLEDGE OF PARTY.

Mystery surrounds the identity of the three men who wrecked the new automobile of the Boston Schoolhouse Commission at South Shrewsbury last night, and in a fight with Henry T. Harrington, his son and his hired man seriously stabbed Mr. Harrington.

Investigation was begun by the Schoolhouse Commissioners to-day to ascertain the identity of the occupants of the machine. Commissioner Charles A. Logue, who says that he was the last person to use the car yesterday on the business of the city, says that he ordered it returned to the garage on Columbia road at Upham's Corner.

The machine when Mr. Logue left it was in charge of Joseph Murray, a demonstrator employed by the Stanley automobile people, who sold the auto to the Schoolhouse Commissioners and delivered it last Saturday.

Murray Did Not Return.

Murray did not show up at the garage with the machine after he had taken it out yesterday morning for the use of Commissioner Logue.

Manager Henry Stenberg of the garage told a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter to-day that when the auto left their place of business yesterday nothing he knew that it was going for a commercial purpose, or did not have the name of the chauffeur nor his license number. He knew the car was employed by the Stanley people as a demonstrator.

"We have heard nothing from him save that a telephone message was received last night, saying the auto had been wrecked at Worcester and would not be returned until later," Mr. Stenberg.

"Since the last automobile was wrecked in Cambridge and the chauffeur discharged orders were given that the autos should not be used for anything except official business of the Commission," said Mr. Logue to-day. "This machine was purchased principally for my work about the schoolhouses. It was delivered last Saturday. It cost $8500 and was a runabout. The man Murray was sent out with me to show how the car worked, and as soon as I was able to handle it he was to return to the factory.

"He called for me yesterday morning. We went about town some but when we got to the corner of Hanover and Wash ington streets I found that I could make better time afoot, so I told the chauffeur to return to the garage and take a half holiday. He was to call for me this morning, but he did not show up. I have heard nothing from him."

Mr. Logue denied that any person connected with the Schoolhouse Commission or with any of the city departments was concerned in the use of the automobile after he had left it on Washington street.

"I ordered that machine back to the garage," said Mr. Logue. "No one else connected with our department or any other was to use it yesterday. Why it did not go back I do not know."

Seek Missing Chauffeur.

Accompanied by John S. Casey of the Mayor's office, Commissioner Logue visited the Stanley factory at Newton to-day and found that they had heard nothing from Murray. They had been in communication with Shrewsbury and had sent Mr. Edward Hallett of the firm down there to investigate. If the auto is not too badly damaged it will be brought back and repaired, although deputies from Shrewsbury say that farmer Harrington intends to hold on to it until he finds out who was responsible for the attack on him.

Murray, the missing demonstrator, is about fifty years of age and lives in Newton. He has been employed by the company for six or seven years and has never had an accident, although he has traveled all over the country as one of their demonstrators.

There is some talk now being made by the Shrewsbury authorities to ascertain the identity of the three men who were in the auto and attacked Mr. Harrington. That it was a merry party is shown by the fact that considerable beer was found in the machine. Part of itself is now guarded at the Harrington farm.

Auto Came on Turnpike.

According to the story told by Mr. Harrington to the police, the auto came along the Boston turnpike, and when it met his team Mr. Harrington tried to direct it to the side of the road, driven by John Wilson, an employe of Mr. Harrington, but the auto was broken into and the fight ensued.

At this moment William Harrington came up with John Anderson and went to the farmer's assistance. The autoists started to run, and one of the men held the farmer's son by the arm, while the companions escaped.

Telephone calls were sent for the police. A number of constables arrived, but before they reached the scene the occupants of the municipal auto had disappeared. They evidently reached Worcester and took a train for Boston.

IN THICK FOG, HUB AT MERCY OF WARSHIPS

Under cover of a heavy fog a fleet of United States warships steamed up Boston Harbor last night and theoretically threatened the city with capture. The confusion of the mimic warfare proved two things, first, that under such weather conditions as prevailed last night, a foreign fleet could lay the Hub in ruins, and, second, that there is a great need of for stronger search lights than the forts in the harbor are now equipped with. However, there is one comforting fact. Experts say that when the additional fortifications planned for the harbor are constructed, the city will be practically impregnable.

The fog was so thick that the attacking fleet approached to within 4,000 yards of Fort Warren before it was discovered by means of searchlights, whereas the forts are equipped with guns that can carry ten or twelve miles.

Forts Revere, Andrew and Warren sank two of their fleet, according to the rules of the game, but a landing was effected at Winthrop and at Fort Andrew on Peddock's Island. Fort Strong was put out of business by the fleet and Fort Ardnor was taken by storm after a landing was effected.

The sharpest engagement took place off Winthrop, the guns of Fort Heath endeavoring vainly to prevent a landing. Fort Banks did good work with her auge mortars.

The attacking fleet consisted of three vessels acting as battleships, two cruisers and three torpedo boats; the battleships General Knox under Captain Meriam, Colonel Armstead under Captain Patterson, and a third under Captain Ringgold; the cruiser Major Rowell under Master Maynard, and the armored cruiser Major W. Field; and the torpedo boats Colonel Mitchell under Master Thompson, Lieut. Behort under Master Shelhase, and Lieutenant E. A. Bunters under Master Thompson.

FINE FATHER FOR DESERTION

For failure to support his eight-year-old daughter Mabel, whom he left at the home of his brother-in-law, John H. Hafferty, of No. 31 Powers street, three years ago, after the death of her mother, Fred Colby, a fireman employed on the steamship Bay State, was fined $20 in the Judge Fallon in the South Boston District Court to-day. He appealed and was held in $200 for the Superior Court.

ARTERY BURST BLED TO DEATH

Merritt Cutting, twenty-seven years of age, of Cherry Valley, Leicester, a checking clerk for the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, who two weeks ago had his right leg terribly crushed between two freight cars, to-day bled to death at the home of his cousin, Mrs. A. L. Boynton, of No. 24 Gordon avenue, Hyde Park, when a large artery burst.

Cutting, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Cutting, appeared to be in a fair way for recovery until early to-day, when the great artery in his several leg began to bleed.

GIVING MONEY HIS BUSINESS

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—Declaring his only business was "giving away money," John R. Pearsons of Hinsdale, who has given away millions of dollars to small colleges, appeared before the Board of Review and succeeded in having an assessment of $500 removed.

Mr. Pearsons was assessed on one desk and other small office fixtures.

"I have absolutely no business except to give away money," said Mr. Pearsons to Roy O. West, who heard the complaint. "I have not been in that office for a month, and get there only a few times each year, and I don't think I ought to pay taxes on the stuff I have in the office."

Called Her "Angel Face" But Failed to Give Her Any Money.

Mrs. Richard E. Call, "Angel Face" Wife.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Declaring that her husband, who called her his "angel faced child" and his "little dove," had enforced into the arrangement of the wedding pacts with her—that he should live on probation for one year to prove his ability to properly support her—Mrs. Bijou Jeanette Charimer Call, once a beauty of this city, has made answer to the charge preferred against her by Professor H. Ellsworth Call in his action for annulment of their marriage.

Professor Call, who holds a position with the Board of Education in the Ivy Witt Clinton High School, and is a geologist and author of note, swore in his affidavits presented to the Supreme Court that his wife married him with fraudulent intent. He says that he gave her presents valued at $1,000 before marriage, and that after the ceremony he presented her with $5,000. He further alleges that his wife left him on their marriage night after they had partaken of their wedding feast.

Mrs. Call, an extremely pretty young woman, had a different story to tell at her country home here. She declared she had been living there with her brother, Gerald Charimer, and an aged companion, since April 5. Prior to that time, she says, she was a masseuse and manicurist to members of the Four Hundred.

"My husband's statements are a bundle of venomous falsehoods," she said with great earnestness. "He never gave me $1,000 worth of gifts. He never presented me with $5,000 after our marriage. He did give me one handkerchief and a wedding ring. He was unable to support me and that is why I refused to live with him.

"I have since learned that he was once married to Ida L. Call, from whom I have received a long letter from David City, Neb. She tells me that they were divorced after living in Brooklyn for many years.

"Professor Call is a silly old man whose love professions were all embodied in talk and poetry. He called me his angel-faced child, his turtle dove and even baby girl, but he failed to even attempt to support me and I left him.

"He was first too cute for anything in his poetry, but he failed to support me with verses. I can run a loom. He loved to write verses about my eyes, my hands, my hair, my teeth, my mouth and even my feet. Here is one for example:

"Darling, I love three far thy deep brown eyes,
Three are nobe that shine like stars above,
Thy hair a glory is, forgive these lovelorn sighs,
Thou art my corn, my true, my little love.

"Ah, baby dear, could I but have my way,
As o'er the sea each sweet treasure drove
From fingers nips,
From thee I never, never, never would take
A penny,
A honey bee, I'd drain the treasures of thy lips."

THOUSANDS OF "L" EMPLOYES IN NEW UNION

Big Organization Is Secretly Formed in Spite of Official Vigilance.

MANY MORE COMING IN

Confident of success W. D. Mahon, international president of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Association, is working on a plan to organize the employes of the Boston Elevated Railway. Over 2,000 of these men, despite the fact that they are aware that the officials of the Elevated are opposed to labor unions, have enrolled themselves as members of the union and it is believed that at least 3,000 elevated employes will be members within a week or two.

Because of the opposition of the Elevated officials the work of organization was had to be carried on quietly. Many secret meetings have been held, some of them late at night after the conductors and motormen completed their day's labors and the organizers say that the 2,000 are who have joined the union will stick it out and fight for its principles and that action is taken by the Elevated authorities, who threw years ago when an attempt was made to organize the employes of the road defeated the plan by threatening the employes.

Working day and night to make his fight a success is William J. Walsh, president of the Quincy local union of the street Railway Employes, secretary of the state committee and national organizer of the England.

Associated with Mr. Walsh are Realin Orr, international treasurer, P. F. Sheehan, second vice-president and George Lyons, chairman of the State committee.

President Mahon is expected here in a few days to complete arrangements which it is expected will result in the public announcement by the Elevated men that they are members of the union.

WITNESSES FOR MRS. EDDY MAKE DEPOSITIONS

Affidavits Are Being Taken Before Attorney Fernald in Boston.

WILL BE KEPT SECRET

Eddy depositions in behalf of the defendants in the suit brought by the "next friends" of the aged leader of Christian Scientists, are being taken this afternoon before Attorney Fred A. Fernald, in Room No. 318, Kimball building.

The taking of these depositions was to commence earlier in the day, but owing to the absence of General Frank S. Streeter, chief counsel for Mrs. Eddy, the matter was postponed by agreement of counsel.

The taking of the depositions is likely to consume the remainder of the day and to-morrow, if not longer. Counsel for the "next friends" have expressed a desire to withhold the depositions from the public.

RAISE $1,000,000 FOR MINING TEMPLE

DENVER, Aug. 1.—The directors of the American Mining Congress at a meeting to be held the latter part of this month will assemble plans for raising funds to erect the $1,000,000 mining temple in this city. Judge J. H. Richards of Boise, Idaho, Governor Buchtel and Meyer Friedman, president of the Chamber of Commerce are the members of the executive committee.

CALL SHUNTS IN TRANSIT PROBE

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—President Theodore P. Shonts of the Interborough-Metropolitan takes the stand at the opening of the Greater New York transit investigation this afternoon.

It is not believed that either Belmont or Ryan will be brought before the commission, but other men prominently connected with the active management of the property are to be heard, not only with reference to details of operation, but of finance as well. It is especially desired to bring home to the responsible individuals the disappearance of enormous sums of money from the treasury of the various merged roads.

PORTIUNCULA FEAST TO-DAY

Catholics of Boston and vicinity are celebrating to-day the feast of the Portiuncula (Little Gates). The celebration continues to-morrow.

All the faithful will gain the indulgences prescribed by a specific decree in any of the churches and public chapels—but not private oratories—of the three orders of St. Francis, the regulars, the Capuchins and the Conventuals and the second class of the Clares and Franciscan nuns.

In Boston there are two churches, St. Leonard's of Port Maurice, on Prince street, and the monastery of St. Clare, at No. 38 Bennet street, where the greater indulgence may be obtained each time the church is visited. The same privilege obtains also at the Church of St. Stanislaus, in Chelsea.

NAVAL MAGAZINES TO HAVE AIR COOLERS

LONDON, Aug. 1.—As a result of explosions on warships of various navies of the world, attributed to the overheating of the magazines, the British admiralty has decided to equip the magazines of all ships in the British navy with refrigerating machinery to keep down the temperature.

KILLED BY RUNAWAY.

SALISBURY, N. C., Aug. 1.—James McDaniel, aged twenty-two years, married, was killed in a runaway accident last night. A friend narrowly escaped by jumping. McDaniel's foot caught in the buggy and he was dragged several blocks with his head on the pavement. He was dead when picked up.

PANIC IN CRASH ON NORTH RIVER

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Hundred of men, women and children were thrown into a frightful panic on two steam vessels today when the steamer Asbury Park of the Jersey Central line crashed into the ferryboat Rotlunk of the same company. The accident occurred at Pier 10, North River, when the Red Bank was making her regular trip from Red Bank. Both were badly damaged in the crash, and part of the rails were torn away.

So heavy was the compact that women and children were thrown violently to the floor and scenes of great excitement followed. Half a score or more were slightly injured by the flying glass in the windows of both vessels.

It was during the rush hour that the collision occurred. In the excitement several women tried to leap into the river but were restrained by members of both crews. The Rotlunk was rushed hurriedly into her slip and docked. The Asbury Park proceeded under easy steam to her pier where her frightened passengers were discharged.

Both vessels were badly damaged and will be laid up for some time.

WIFE SEEKS LOST HUSBAND

Grief-stricken over the disappearance of her husband, Mrs. Walter A. Blood, of No. 13 Emerald street, South End, appealed to the police at headquarters to-day to assist her in finding him. With a family of eight children to support, the oldest being nineteen and the youngest one and a half years, Mrs. Blood is in desperate circumstances.

On July 22 Blood left his home for work, and since that time nothing has been heard of him. When last seen Blood was dressed in a dark sack coat and gray trousers. He has dark hair and a brown mustache.

Telephone Hearing Begins to Disclose Sensational Graft

Meantime the Suppliant Members of Highway Commission Hide Names.

Having estimated that 10 per cent of all the amount formerly expended on the rural payment in the counties department represents "phantoms," carried on the list of employes for the profit of politicians and their friends, admitting that Boston Aldermen and their clerk of committees get free telephones in their homes as long as they remain in the city government, confessing that 62 "various residents" of Massachusetts and 61 "various residents" of other Northern New England states enjoy the "frank" privilege of tolling or long distance calls free of cost, the New England Telephone Company today resumed the witness stand before the Massachusetts Highway Commission at the Food Building in Asbinton Place.

Big Scandal Grows.

Day by day, as the inquiry proceeds, with E. A. Whitman pitted single-handed against Powers and their and a score of technical men, auditors and other officials of the company, the investigation will have for the basis desire of the Massachusetts Highway Commissioners to "keep out the rakers" more and more assume some of the aspects of the insurance scandal in New York.

Phantoms on Rolls.

It is admitted that "phantom" or "shadow" employes have been carried on the rolls, and that these "shadows" or "phantoms" represent officeholders or other HAVE COME OUT. So far as time the Highway Commission has ruled that the NAMES ARE NOT ESSENTIAL. They are acting on a petition for a reduction of telephone rates in the Boston district. The petitioners allege that rates are high, in part because the officers of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company have wasted $500,000 or $600,000 on the "phantom" pay roll. The Highway Commission holds that the facts can be established without letting the public know the names of the men, or have got anywhere with the graft.

Payrolls already introduced indicate that on March 8, 1904, it became necessary to remove some rubbish from a conduit in Pitt street. A time keeper's book, submitted by Lawyer Whitman, reveals that the petitioners, whom that the job called for one laborer (who was employed one hour), one foreman, one sub-foreman, one time keeper and one watchman. Everybody but the laborer got time for a full day.

In February of that year (if the time book did not lie for the purpose of concealing the graft advertised out through padded payrolls to public officials) 19 telephone employes went out to "paint and scrape the telephone and conduit pipes on Malden Bridge. They had five stations to paint, and the party was made up of 5 laborers, 5 watchmen, 2 time keepers, 2 sub-foremen and a foreman!

"That class of work," admitted General Superintendent George H. Dresser of the Telephone Trust, "was done by men who did not render any real service to the company," was "contrary to former's Sub-foremen and watchmen.

Here Is Novel Graft.

One young man, the son of a prominent city official, was admittedly carried on the payrolls of the Telephone Company in one of these capacities, while he was pursuing his studies at Harvard University. It was admitted that he rendered no service to the Telephone Company.

THE HIGHWAY COMMISSIONERS SAW TO IT THAT NO NAMES WERE MENTIONED.

Mr. Dresser had testified that there are only eleven "foremen" in the entire department, thus accounting for the hiring of 146 laborers to look after 11 foremen. Most of the emergency calls were for small jobs, he intimated.

"But in January," said Mr. Whitman, pulling now to one of the pages of the book, which Dresser held open in his hands, "small gangs were being sent out without any sub foreman?"

"I see nothing here," replied Dresser, "that says anything about it."

Mr. Whitman called his attention to this entry:

"1 F 10."

"What does that mean, Mr. Dresser?"

"One foot ten inches," said Dresser, and over the Asbinton place side of the room the telephone crowd laughed heartily.

Forces Admission.

Lawyer Whitman didn't laugh. Within five minutes he had Mr. George H. Dresser admitting that "1 F 10" really signifies "one foreman, 10 hours." Before Whitman got through the telephone payrolls men down to that point, however, Mr. Dresser had said that he hadn't the slightest idea what was meant by "1 F 10." Mr. Whitman showed later that it meant "1 laborer, 10 hours."

"Who has title to this book now? Attorney Powers demanded. "Is the city in? Do you understand that it is stolen property?"

Lawyer Whitman—I am examining Mr. Dresser. I am not BEING examined, Mr. Powers.

When he had gone a little further with Dresser and the time book, and had carefully noted the entries, Whitman in a manner of apparently unimportant little things, Mr. Whitman laid the book suddenly off with.

Q—There you no longer think, Mr. Dresser, that "1F 10" means "one foot, ten inches?"

A—No.

Q—Why did you say so, just now?

A—Because at that time that was what is conveyed to me.

Q—Well, take up this item of February 15, at Malden Bridge. What do these entries indicate was done that day?

A—Painting and scraping pipes at Malden.

Comic Opera Grafting.

And so the investigation, he admitted, meant that the five gallons of paint job on Malden Bridge was entrusted to

One light keeper as foreman.
Two time keepers.
Two sub foremen.
Five watchmen.
Eight laborers.

Mr. Whitman—Now we'll take up this other under Wednesday, March 9. What does it indicate to you was done on that day?

A—It doesn't indicate to me that there was anything done.

Q—Moved some rubbish, didn't they, in Pitt street?

To "Move Some Rubbish."

Mr. Dresser found that "they" did, and that the moving of rubbish called for:

One laborer.
One foreman.
One sub foreman.
One time keeper.
One watchman.

The man who "moved the rubbish"—the laborer—was credited with "three hours." It was a rainy day. Everybody else got full time, ten hours.

Q—To Dresser, by McClintock—How many years has the practice of supposing politicians been going on?

SAME OBJECTION. BY POWERS. SAME RULING BY McCLINTOCK. "IMMATERIAL."

"Well," said Lawyer Whitman, for the petitioners who think that there might be a chance of lower rates if the politician-phantoms could be knocked off the pay rolls, "I submit that if the officers of the New England Telephone Company have wasted the funds of that company, they are little better off than if I believe that if these things are true, as we allege, the Commission should recommend that suit be brought.

Whitman's Sharp Thrust.

"Assuming that I could show that $500,000 or $600,000 has been wasted, and that these officers should be compelled to repay it would not these questions then be of importance?"

Telephone Attorney Powers: This talk of $500,000 or $600,000 waste is all nonsense. And you can't open up a new phase of this proceeding.

McClintock commended reserves its decision.

Jasper N. Keith, vice-president of the telephone company, was the next witness.

Q—By Attorney Whitman: What is the reason for the refusal to answer the objection by Powers? The salaries will be furnished on the pump well. Objection sustained by the board.

Q. Who pays for the right to have a free telephone?

A. There is no rule. They might be given by the president or vice-president, and then reported to the auditor. Boston aldermanic applications go to me. I haven't had any this year, but there may have been some. I forward the orders to the division superintendent.

Q.—How are they disseminated?

A.—An Aldermanic telephone is discontinued after he goes out of office. If he goes out of office in January, the telephone is discontinued the following April. The instructions are to discontinue them as a man goes out of office. The clerk of committees has a telephone in his residence, besides the Aldermen.

Q.—Are the grants issued by you? A.—By the president, vice president and general manager.

Attorney Powers: "There is a list of the franks furnished the commission."

Lawyer Whitman: "I have got to be furnished the petitioners!"

A discussion of the list was given over to the commission. Here are the people who get free long-distance service when ever they want it.

170 employees.
85 officers and employees of other companies.
62 to various residents in Massachusetts.
61 to various residents of other states.
378 total.

Mr Attorney Whitman. Is the book of franks to be submitted by the petitioners?

Powers Makes Answer.

Although Mr. Whitman apparently asked the question of the commission, Mr. Powers sprang to his feet in his anxiety to get the board out of a bad hole and answered for them. It did need more time before during the hearing.

"The book is not to be submitted, as it shows the names."

CHAIRMAN McCLINTOCK—NO. THE COMMISSION HAS SEEN THE BOOK EXCEPTING NAMES AND THE NAMES ARE NOT MATERIAL.

Judges In Bright Sayings Contest to Announce Winner of $500 Building Lot

Notable Writers of Child Life and Lovers of Children to Make Difficult Choice in Big Competition.

The judges in the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN'S $500 building lot have finished their work and the result of that work will be announced in the AMERICAN Sunday, while this evening the judges of the Bright Sayings Contest will begin their work, the result of which will be announced at the same time.

The judges who will decide upon the child whose bright sayings will win for it a fine $500 building lot at Wellington Hillside are Miss Mary Boyle O'Reilly, Charles F. Pidgin and Jacques Futrelle. These distinguished judges each of whom is well known in literature, and all of whom are living together are full qualified to select that bright saying which is to win the prize, will meet this evening to begin their work.

JACQUES FUTRELLE

MISS MARY BOYLE O'REILLY

CHARLES F PIDGIN

Watched for Results.

They will make the announcement Sunday that has been looked for so long—the announcement of the winner of the Bright Sayings contest which has attracted so much attention among the children and their parents.

The BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN next Sunday there will also be announced the name of the fine Wellington Hillside prize of $100 for the best picture of motherhood taken together.

So in the matter of babies and of children, of little larger growth and of all those men and women who are interested in children only the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN will be of the greatest interest.

Notable Judges.

Everybody who is familiar with the judges who are to decide the Bright Sayings contest knows that the work of decision could not be entrusted to better hands.

Miss O'Reilly, who is a daughter of the late William Boyle O'Reilly, is affiliated with many organizations which have for their object the improvement of the condition of children. She knows children and she loves them.

Some of her best stories have told of children. The child of St. Elizabeth, which she helped to establish, does great work among the children, and the Ill-Built ones that profit by the good works of the guild know and love Miss O'Reilly.

Charles F. Pidgin, the celebrated author of "Quincy Adams Sawyer," "Blennerhassett" and other novels, has a warm spot in his heart for the children. He has a fine little daughter of his own and in his books he has created many other charming children with whom thousands and thousands of readers have fallen in love. Mr. Pidgin's knowledge of real children is just as great as his knowledge of "Children of Men."

And the accession of Mr. Pidgin to the list of judges will be of great help to the contest.

A Lover of Children.

The third judge is the brilliant writer whose stories others seriously hurt, at a late hour, when the boiler of an engine at Bird Island, Illinois, exploded. Fatal trails exploded, wrecking the train, as well another freight train standing on a siding.

CONFESSES TO PART IN ASSASSIN PLOTS

BLACKSMITH ACCUSES PRIEST IN STATEMENT ON ARMENIAN OUTRAGES.

By Boston American Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, August 1.—Direct charges that Father Levont Martoogesatian, alleged leader of the Armenian band of blackmailers, ordered murders committed and planned blackmail in Boston and Asiatic District Attorney Manley yesterday afternoon in a signed statement that practically was a confession by Magerdig Calustrian, a blacksmith, who had been the priest's right hand man for three years.

Calustrian, the "strong-arm man" of the secret association, and the executioner of the officers forced him to serve. He declares he was ordered to commit two murders, and that he personally knows of five men being sent abroad to commit murders.

He states that he received his orders from Father Martoogesatian and knows that Vartanian, who went from here to commit a murder in Constantinople, was in frequent conference with the priest just before he left. He also gives direct evidence regarding the priest's connections with blackmailing letters and threats.

Ordered to Slay Malick.

One of the men Calustrian declares he was ordered to murder is Nivoak Malick, who was arrested in the raids upon the leaders of the Armenian societies, and who a bold $21,000 bail because the police declare stolen goods were found in his house. Calustrian declares Malick disappeared and afterwards regained the priest's good will, so that the order was stifled. In his astonishing statement, which the District Attorney says clinches the case against the Armenian priest, Calustrian states that he has been the close friend of Father Martogessatian four years; that while he was a member of the societies he obeyed the orders of the priest without demur; that he was a regular attendant at the meetings of the society and was in the confidence of the executive committee. He says he was asked to act as a body guard to officers several times when they made visits and attended meetings, and in 1904 he was sent in charge of a band to break up a meeting in Paterson, N. J., which was held by men unfriendly to Father Martogessatian. He says he broke up the meeting and some men were injured.

Five men were sent abroad to commit murders in 1903, Calustrian says, he knowledge and he knows the orders given to them. He named the men to the District Attorney, but they are withheld by that official.

"I went after Malick in 1904," he states, but he had become frightened and disappeared. I could not find him. Mr orders came from Father Martoogesatian, who told me Malick was a Turkish spy. Some time afterward Malick returned to the city. He had made up with Father Martoogesatian and the two were great friends afterward.

Begged Off Murder Job.

"It was more than one year later that I was ordered to join with a man and go to Alexandria to kill a man there. By that time I was thoroughly tired of the methods of the society and I begged off."

Calustrian says he was well acquainted with Vartanian, who was sent from this country in 1906 to kill Apek Gunjian, a wealthy merchant of Constantinople. The Calustrian states that Vartanian was in New York about two weeks before sailing to commit the murder and held long conferences with Father Martoogesatian.

Immediately after the murder of Dunlan, the blacksmith states, the priest told him a dozen letters had been sent to this city by the branch of the society in Constantinople, threatening wealthy merchants here with death unless large sums of money were contributed.

Martoogesatian told me," continues the statement, "that were letters would be sent and that the rich merchants would be forced to give up, and money would be plentiful for us all."

He accompanied the priest as a guard on several occasions on visits made to the homes of wealthy merchants to secure contributions.

After making this statement, Calustrian says he will be allowed his freedom at liberty, promising to be at the office of the District Attorney in the court whenever desired. In view of the value of his evidence to Armenian investigators and translate all the writing documents. It is the history of the intimidation that the prisoner will be forced to tell who employed him.

PUMPED RIVER DRY FOR BRIDE

179 DEGREES OF HEAT IN TEXAS

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Aug. 1.—In an effort to make his 2,000-acre park look like a fairy land for his bride, James E. Duke pumped the Raritan river dry at this point and stopped the operation of the Raritan-Woodra Mills, where 1,000 hands are employed.

Mr. Duke has on his estate artificial lakes covering several hundred acres and innumerable fountains and waterfalls, supplied from the Raritan river by a great pumping plant, recently installed on the river bank above the mills.

In honor of the bride the fountains were made to shoot their spray higher, the lakes were filled to overflowing, the cascades dashed with unusual volume over the rocks and the great pumps were kept going night and day. The river ruddily dwindled to a trickle.

MCGREGOR, Texas, Aug. 1.—The most terrible heat visitation ever known in Texas occurred here recently continuing about an hour and two-score minutes. The thermometer registered 179 degrees in the sun and 117 in the shade. Scores of children miles long and two miles wide was affected.

The heat was accompanied by a peculiar haze, which moved over the country. Scores of people were overcome. Horses, cattle and poultry dropped dead, and one man losing thirty-five head of stock.

SNAKE IN BEER KILLS FOUR MEN

ASHLAND, Ky., August 1.—A copperhead snake had crawled into a beer keg and died, caused the death of four persons, Samuel Biggs, Will Simpson and Carey Tyree, all in outing camps at Welch, fifteen miles distant in the mountains, and another in the hotel here at Samuel Wirills and Walter Johnson

GARVIN OUT FOR ASSEMBLY NOMINATION

Special to the Boston American.

CUMBERLAND, R. I., August 1.—In an exclusive interview with a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter today, former Governor Lucius F. C. Garvin made the announcement that he will be a candidate at the caucuses this Fall as representative in the State Assembly.

In view of the fact that Dr. Garvin has twice been chief magistrate of the State and was last year a candidate for Congress against Congressman Adin Capron, in which he was defeated, although cutting down his opponent's plurality to about 1,000, his candidacy for the lower branch of the Assembly was unexpected.

Dr. Garvin is in favor of the constitutional convention and in sympathy with the reform movements. He is also a supporter of Colonel Robert H. I. Goddard, candidate for the Lincoln party for the United States Senate.

He was Governor of Rhode Island in 1902 and 1903.

PRUETTE IN ROLE HE CREATED HERE

There was a change in the cast of "Cavalleria Rusticana" at the Castle Square Theatre last evening, when William Pruette made his first appearance with the company. He was the original in the character of Alfio in this opera in America. Pruette was in fine voice and gave the part of the village carter with vigor and earnestness. He will sing Alfio the remainder of the week.

LITTLETON IS NAMED CHIEF THAW COUNSEL

NEW YORK, Aug. 1—Martin W. Littleton, former borough president of Brooklyn, has been selected as chief counsel for Harry K. Thaw in his next trial for the murder of Stanford White.

Mr. Littleton's selection was predicted some time ago, the fact that Thaw had selected Littleton to succeed Delmas was made known for the first time today. The retaining Pittsburger has discarded all of his old counsel, including Delmas, Henry Mc-Pike and Clifford W. Harrington. He retains only Bradley and J. Russell Peppercorn, who will assist the silver tongued orator of the South.

It is said that Mr. Littleton's fee will be is not learned. It is expected, though, that it will be fully as large as the one received by Mr. Delmas, $50,000.

Mr. Littleton has long been prominent as a lawyer and a politician. It was he who nominated Alton B. Parker for the Presidency.

THIEVES STEAL COW AND SLAUGHTER IT

CHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 1.—When burglars entered the barn of Farmer Hall they decided to steal a cow, take it to a slaughter house, kill and cut up into quarters, the people here think the limit has been reached. Such occurred here, however.

SEEK FRIENDS THROUGH AID OF AMERICAN

Flood of Old Home Week Visitors at Information Bureau Keep Clerks Busy.

SOME OF TIDINGS SOUGHT

FIRST EDITION—INFORMATION

A flood of visitors poured into the BOSTON AMERICAN Old Home week Information Bureau yesterday. Here is some of the information sought and given:

George E. Holt comes back to Boston from San Francisco. He said to the bureau clerk: "Yes, I am one of those who were shaken out of Frisco. When the house I was in fell I was caught and pinned under the timbers. I was in the contracting business there for fifteen years, and had a large circle of personal and business acquaintances. If any from Frisco reads this notice I hope he will communicate with the bureau.

CROCKER FAMILY.

Eddie Crocker, twenty-three years old, wishes to hear from his brothers, sisters or uncle. He was born on Hanover street, Boston, and had two sisters and two brothers. When about eight years old his mother died. His father had died before this, so he and his sisters and one brother were sent to Hastings Home, Boston. After about two years he was sent to Father Baker's Home in Buffalo, N. Y., and then to the home of James H. McCormick in New York State, where he remained until of age. He is now working in New York City. His father's name was George Crocker and with his mother is buried in Mt. Calvary, Boston. His uncle's name is Edward Crocker. Eddie has not seen any of his relatives since he left Boston thirteen years ago, and will devote his vacation here to searching for them. Any information will be gratefully received by him.

MRS. KATIE OR CATHERINE MIZNER.

About six years ago lived at No. 18 Belmont street, Somerville. Not heard from since. Her husband was killed by highwaymen. Rumored to have lived near the "sugar house," East Boston. Information thankfully received by Mr. Crosbapp, No. 65 Fort avenue, Roxbury.

WENDELL A. VAN WAGNER.

He is from Cleveland, Ohio, and was recognized on the street. Please send in address.

MABEL CASE

From Rogester, Ohio, was seen on the street. Please send in address.

EDITH OR SARAH SMITH

From Steelton, Pa. Information of whereabouts anxiously awaited by Albert Renn, No. 1 Linden Place, North End.

MRS. H. NEWCOMB

From Raynham, Bedford, or Hyde Park. Mr. Blanche E. E. Reynolds, 4709 Evans avenue, Chicago, Ill., will be at 74 Boylston street, Boston, would like to hear from her.

DENIS DONOVAN.

"I lived in Roxbury for years and my children live there now. I ran a saloon on Station street, Roxbury Crossing, 25 years ago. I expect a cousin, Denis Donovan, will be here on Old Home Week, from the West. I am only three-quarters of an hour's ride from Boston. JOHN DONOVAN.

"Care of Mr. Lamb, Stoughton, Mass."

JOHN REGAN.

Son of the late Peter Regan, cattle dealer of Boyle, County Roscommon. Last heard of in Boston where he was supposed to have married and to have four children. Worked in or about Boston or in Lonsdale in the laundries.

EDWARD SMITH.

"I read in your paper, where names are listed, that of Edward Smith of Boston. At present he is away on board a ship but mail directed to this address will reach him."

JOHN PENGEROTH,
No. 863 Tremont street.

JAMES FITZGERALD.

Born on Fort Hill and lived later in North End, Boston. Left home a number of years ago when his folks moved to a small city outside of Boston. Any information will be thankfully received or please call on brothers and sisters at No. 238 Bunker Hill street, Charlestown.

PATRICK COFFEE.

During Old Home Week I would ask that you kindly trace for me, if possible, Patrick Coffee born in Riverstown, Lower Glanmire, County Cork, Ireland. From there he immigrated to this country, and in the early fifties he was a resident of Broad street, where his first wife died. He then moved to Cambridge, where he married about four children. He was a sailor and was employed as a stevedore on Constitution wharf. About 1854 he left Boston for California, Wis., and from there he went to San Francisco, where he started in the hotel business. Since then we have had no trace of him. No doubt he is dead, but we would like to locate his family if we can. We are primarily anxious to locate them, any information you may receive will be thankfully received by Miss Catherine Coffee, Miss Ellen Callahan, No. 823 Dorchester avenue, Dorchester, Mass.

NAMES ASKED FOR.

The Doctor Recommends Appendixine

Read His Letter

"THE APPENDIXINE CO., New York City.

"Gentlemen—Please send me ten bottles of Appendixine at once. I wish to say that I have received extremely satisfactory results from the use of Appendixine within the last three months, demonstrating to my entire satisfaction its therapeutic value, not only in the treatment of appendicitis, but also Gall Stones and Constipation of the Bowels. In a word I can say of no other medical profession you cannot possibly make a mistake when you prescribe Appendixine in the treatment of Appendicitis, Gall Stones, Kidney Trouble, Catarrh of the Stomach, Chronic Constipation, etc.

"Respectfully,

"WILLIAM PROTZMAN, M. D.

"119 South Tenth St., Lincoln, Neb.

"P. S.—I will shortly write for the Medical Journal an article on my successful treatment of Stomach, Liver and Kidneys by the use of Appendixine."

Appendixine has been used by leading physicians for 35 years. Now it is offered to the public at $1 per bottle. Interesting booklets mailed free on your request.

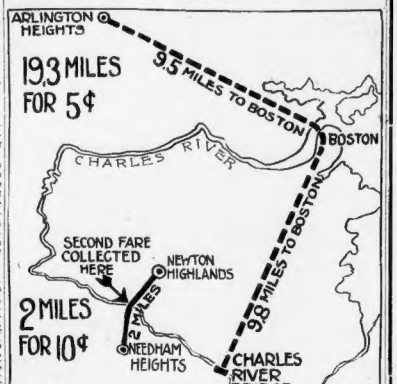
SEE NEW HAVEN'S HAND IN TROLLEY EXTORTION

Fare Raised on Boston and Newton When Bad Service Could Not Drive Passengers to Monopoly Line.



Map showing how the Boston & Newton Street Railway, supposed to be controlled by the New Haven, charges ten cents for a ride of two miles. A ride of 19.3 miles on the Boston Elevated lines between Arlington Heights and the Charles River bridge costs only five cents.

President Mellen of the New Haven road has never confessed that the New Haven owns the Boston & Newton Street Railway Company, but there is pretty good evidence that the New Haven road does own it just the same. A few months ago when the New Haven road completed its short line connection between Needham and West Roxbury, enabling it to send trains to Boston by way of West Roxbury instead of by Newton Highlands and the Boston & Albany railroad, a peculiar change took place in the route of the Boston & Newton Street Railway.

ONE COINCIDENCE.

On the very same day that the New Haven road began running trains by way of West Roxbury, the Boston & Newton street railway stopped running cars to Newton Highlands, instead of sending the cars to Newton Highlands it sent them by a roundabout route to Newton Centre, connecting with the Commonwealth avenue cars at a new point.

The Boston & Newton street railway kept as far as possible from the Boston & Albany station at Newton Highlands. This prevented passengers who might act like the new system of the New Haven from taking the trolley cars to Newton Highlands and thence taking the Boston & Albany in.

In spite of the difficulties which the Boston & Newton street railway company placed in the way of passengers who desired to use it as a means of transportation to Boston, people continued to use the line. They would choose to take the trolley cars to Newton Highlands and walk three blocks to the railroad station rather than go to Boston by way of West Roxbury, or they would take the trolley cars all the way in.

Costly Two Mile Ride.

The recent increase in fare makes it necessary for a passenger from Needham Heights who wishes to take a train at Newton Highlands to pay ten cents in order to ride two miles. Evidently the plan of making it as inconvenient as possible for passengers to use the trolley cars on their way to Boston have not succeeded, and in order to stop everybody from using the trolley cars to get to Boston the company has put up the price to ten cents. This, at least, is the way it looks to an outsider. Certainly if the company desired to do everything possible to prevent the public from riding over the lines it could not have done better. Passengers can now ride over the New Haven railroad by the roundabout West Roxbury route, or they can pay ten cents to Newton Highlands and then take the Boston & Albany train.

Seetmen Await Reply.

The Needham board of selectmen are today awaiting for the answer of the Newton Street Railway Company to the selectmen's order that the company remove the tracks on Chestnut street, Needham, over which it has run its cars for the past eight months by permission of the town officials. The order of the selectmen for the removal of the tracks marks another step in the bitter warfare being waged by the citizens of Needham, on one hand, acting through the board of selectmen, and the Newton Street Railway Company on the other.

The whole trouble, brought to a climax three weeks ago by the hundred per cent increase in fares on the street railway company's lines, is a case of spite, and a willingness to divert traffic from his own road, the Needham people charge, on the part of former Congressman "Sam" Powers, president of the company. And counsel of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company. The doubling of the fare from Needham to points in the Albany in. Needham is made to President Powers, one allegation is, because selectmen refused to grant to the company two valuable franchises which it asked.

One was for the right to act as common carriers of freight in the matter within the town limits. The other was for a franchise to operate cars on Chestnut street, Needham. Both grants were refused by the Selectmen after public hearings had been held and the voice of the citizens had been heard in unanimous protest against granting "Sam" Powers' road any more favors until it had improved its service. Then came the increased fare, part of a prearranged plan, many assert, to divert traffic to the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad's new Needham branch.

BROTHERS GONE FOR 40 YEARS

For forty years Mrs. Margaret Crowley of C. street, South Boston, has not received any communication or heard of her three brothers, Thomas, Michael and William Ryan, who were soldiers in the Civil War and who lived in Washington at that time. William, the oldest brother, so Mrs. Crowley was told by a member of his regiment, enlisted with the British Vanguards in the Crimean War and enlisted for the Civil War, after which track of him was lost. The other two brothers she never heard from after they enlisted.

Mrs. Crowley is now a great grandmother and is quite feeble and old, left Washington five years after the war and has made her home in South Boston since that time, and she would be very happy in her old age if she could see or hear from any of her brothers.

7,000 SOLDIERS GUARD BELFAST

BELFAST, Aug. 1.—Troops continue to pour into the city, emphasizing the fact that the authorities are fully determined to grapple promptly with rioting whether on the part of the strikers or their sympathizers. The police, who are demanding more pay because of the extra work the strike entails. There are now 7,000 troops here.

Important developments are expected August 2, on which day there will be a special parade of the Orange societies.

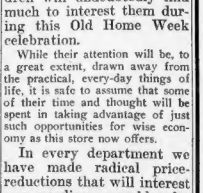
The police will be told that if they persist in defying the authorities they will be suspended and their places filled by the military.

OLD HOME WEEK FILMS AT KEITH'S

There is being displayed at Keith's this week a notable set of kinetograph pictures, taken particularly for Old Home Week. One is a "Morning Scene at the South Station," then a view at the North Station, during the morning rush hour. One of the best views of a launching scene ever developed is shown, that of the U. S. S. Salem, last Saturday, at the Fore River works in Quincy.

FIND HUB PLAYERS MISSING VIOLINS

TUXEDO PARK, N. Y., Aug. 1.—Most of the valuable silverware stolen from the residence of William B. Dinsmore on the night of June 22, and two violins belonging to Boston players, were recovered by the police to-day buried in the woods about three miles from the Dinsmore residence.



Boston's returning children will undoubtedly find much to interest them during this Old Home week celebration.

While their attention will be, to a great extent, drawn away from the prosaic, every-day things of life, it is safe to assume that some of their time and thought will be spent in taking advantage of just such opportunities for wise economy as this store now offers.

In every department we have made radical price-reductions that will interest men needing wearables for themselves or for their boys.

FEAR 2 BOYS DROWNED; DRAG CHARLES RIVER

Jacob Berman and Morris Krivitsky Disappear from New Bridge.

PUSHED OFF BY THRONG

The harbor police of Boston are to-day dragging the Charles River in the vicinity of the new West Boston Bridge to recover the bodies of Jacob Berman of No. 48 Wall street and Morris Krivitsky of No. 8 Wall street, both of whom are thought to have fallen from the bridge while watching the fireworks in connection with the dedicatory ceremonies at the bridge last night.

Both boys left their homes shortly after 7 o'clock last evening, and an hour later Krivitsky's cap and Berman's knife were found on one of the girders of the new structure. Mrs. Berman is said to have seen her boy falling into the river, not knowing at the time who he was. When he did not come home hours later she reported her fears to the police, and the search for him at once began, with the finding of his knife and the cap of the Krivitsky boy as the first clue to the probable double drowning.

Up to 10 o'clock to-day neither boy had been seen at his home nor had anything at all been heard from either of them, although the police of both Boston and Cambridge are searching for them.

Hose Carriage of No. 4 Linden place was forced from the wall at the west end of the bridge. He landed on the ground and received internal injuries. He was rushed to the Massachusetts General Hospital. On the Cambridge side of the new bridge two men and a girl were pushed over by the throng last night. The police are unable to obtain their names as they were rescued and cared for by friends.

SHUMAN STORE WAS CLOSED FOR PARADE

A Shuman & Co. closed for the day at noon yesterday to give every member of the organization an opportunity to see the parade. A number of friends of the firm were invited to witness the parade from the spacious windows of Shuman Corner, and an informal lunch was served. A gold piece of generous amount was presented by Mr. A. Shuman to each employee who appeared in the procession in connection with the two Shuman floats.

POLICE KNOW ASSAILANT OF WELLESLEY OPERATOR

BOSTON MAN INSTALLED IN PLACE DEFIES GHOSTS AND INTRUDERS.

The mysterious assailant of Joseph D. Girard himself up so much that he thought the building was haunted. His story spread and before long the building was shut down as haunted.

"We know who the man is who attacked McCarthy. The victim is now at the Newton Hospital. While he is rational he can't say much.

"The man we want is twenty-four years old, about five feet eight inches tall and weighs about 164 pounds. McCarthy was pistol probably with a fist. There is no doubt he knew who could deliver a blow so hard as the man we now want and put him out as it did McCarthy.

"Then, again, the man we are looking for wanted money. He needed money. At twenty minutes to 12 o'clock that night one of our most prominent citizens saw a man standing in front of the telephone exchange. He gave us a good description of him. It tallies with our suspect.

Describe the Assault.

"The rest was easy for us after that. The man who assaulted McCarthy went to the building from the back door. He walked into a side room. At quarter to 12 o'clock the telephone drop from Newton came in and McCarthy answered it. Five minutes later one of my officers called 'Central' from the police station. He did not get an answer. McCarthy was the drop and was about to answer when he was struck and became unconscious. His assailant tied his hands and legs with wire.

"McCarthy's pockets were picked and he lost money and his watch taken. The thief did not want the watch; he knew he would be held in his possession. He knew he could not sell it. He threw it away.

"There is a 12-party out of this village to South Framingham. It was on this car that the assault occurred.

ROSTAND, NOTED DRAMATIST, ILL

Special Cable to Boston American.

PARIS, Aug. 1.—M. Edmond Rostand, the famous dramatist and author of "Cyrano de Bergerac," who was stricken with appendicitis about a week ago, is now suffering from polyic abscesses and his condition causes great alarm.

His mental state has been a source of distress to his friends ever since his literary probity was attacked several years ago by S. Eberly Gross of Chicago, who charged that "Cyrano de Bergerac" was a plagiarism from Gross's "The Merchant Prince of Corsville."

The case was upheld by the American courts, which awarded to Mr. Gross nominal damages of one dollar.

NEGROES FIGHT FOR VOTE RIGHT

By Boston American Leased Wire.

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 1.—Yesterday the state senate passed by a vote of 33 to 6 the Felder-Williams constitutional amendment bill. This bill has for its purpose the disfranchisement of the negro vote. The bill will now be sent to the lower house of the Legislature, and when passed to that body, which action is assured, will be submitted to the people for their ratification.

During the last period of registration, which closed yesterday, there has been much activity among the negroes, and it is said more negroes have qualified themselves to vote than ever before. From this it is seen that the negroes intend to fight hard to prevent their elimination from the politics of the State.

PREDICT WAR ON RAILROADS IN ALABAMA

By Boston American Leased Wire.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., August 1.—As the result of an all-night conference between Governor Comer and his lawyers, it is probable that an extra session of the Alabama Legislature will be called in an effort to repeal certain railroad curbing acts passed during the Winter session of the Legislature and which are now suspended from operation owing to litigation over the constitutionality of the laws.

In case an extra session is determined upon it is expected that the Governor of Alabama will attempt a new strangle grip on the railroads that operate within State borders.

STRUCK BY AUTO, ADMITS HIS FAULT

NEWTON, Aug. 1.—Struck by an automobile as he stepped from a trolley car at Washington and Prospect streets, West Newton, James H. Saunders, sixty-four, living at No. 16 North Prospect street, was injured about the back and legs. He was taken to his home in the machine that struck him, which was unidentified, and was operated by Carl E. Erickson. Saunders admitted that he was bewildered at the time when he was struck and said that it was his own fault, as he alighted from the car on the wrong side and then ran in front of the automobile.

COMRADES PAY LAST HONORS TO WRECK VICTIM

With hundreds of members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and fellow employes of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railway standing about the grave in Mt. Hope Cemetery, the body of Daniel McCullar Frazier, a conductor who was killed in a train wreck at Canpello Sunday night, was lowered to its last resting place to-day.

The services were at his home, No. 17 Mosely street, Dorchester, at 10 o'clock, and were conducted by the Rev. Frank L. Lowe, who also officiated at a brief service at the grave.

The bearers were members of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, John Russell, Joseph Shields, Joseph Rickford, Charles Jones, Albert Gushee and Albert Tuttle.

Among the hundreds of floral tributes was a magnificent reproduction of the Plain street bridge at Campello, where Mr. Frazier was killed. The bridge was of lilies, pinks and forget-me-nots, the tracks of English white daisies, the sleepers of English purple daisies and the roadbed of maiden hair fern. This was from the railroad trainmen in the employ of the New York, New Haven & Hartford.

The tribute from the conductors of the New York, New Haven & Hartford was a standing wreath of white roses, with base of ferns and asters.

The City Point Lodge of Railroad Trainmen, of which Mr. Frazier was a member, sent a floral brake wheel.

DROWNING GIRL IS RESCUED BY DARING YOUTH

NORTH ATTLEBOR, Aug. 1.—Howard Gardner, aged twenty-three of North Attleboro, is to-day being hailed by everyone in this town as a hero, while Miss Luella Ames, a pretty girl of eighteen, of Minneapolis, Minn., is receiving congratulations upon her escape from drowning, for had it not been for Gardner she would be lying at the bottom of Lake Archer in Wrentham.

Miss Ames, Gardner, Miss Marjorie Bishop, with whom Miss Ames is visiting at the Summer cottage on Lake Archer, and Robert Campbell went sailing on the lake to-day.

While at the very deepest part of the lake the Minneapolis girl started to walk from one end of the boat to the other. Her foot caught in a stern cleat, and she fell into the water and sank at once. In an instant, Gardner leaped into the water after her, and as she rose to sink for the third time, he caught her.

Fighting desperately with the struggling girl, Gardner managed to keep afloat until Campbell had brought the sailboat about and alongside the couple. They were dragged aboard, and a quick run to the shore followed.

BAN ON DUELS IN CUBA.

HAVANA, Aug. 1.—In consequence of a recent encounter between Cuban journalists, in which one was slightly hurt, Governor Magoon has given orders to prevent similar affairs.

CLANS MARCH, PIPES SKIRL, TARTANS WAVE

Headed by the Lynn Brass Band and the pipers of the Highland Dress Association of Massachusetts, 500 members of that organization and the Caledonian Club of New York marched through the streets of Boston to-day before they took a train at the South Station for Caledonian Grove, where the Scottish clans are having their picnic.

The New York clansmen and the Highland Association were in full Scotch dress.

Directly behind the Lynn Band and just ahead of the pipers marched Chief William A. Riggs of the Caledonian Club, after the pipers came the Highland Dress Association, with President Peter Spence in their lead.

The parade left the Highland Dress Association rooms, No. 694 Washington street, at 8:45 o'clock and took the following route to the South Station:

Down Washington to Boylston street, then to Tremont, West Washington, Congress, State and Commercial streets, through Dock and Adams squares, back to Washington street, to School street, through Tremont and Winter streets and down Summer street to the South Station.

Several thousand persons enjoyed the day's program of sports at the picnic grounds.

Important Notice to Tobacco Dealers and Their Salesmen

Ramleh Turkish Cigarettes, which in the short time since their introduction have won such tremendous popularity, will hereafter be known as the "Helmar." We ask your assistance in announcing this change of name to your customers—feeling sure you will recognize the advantage of continuing your recommendation of this splendid cigarette.

The "Ramleh" becomes the "Helmar" in order to prevent misrepresentation by manufacturers of cigarettes with names spelled or sounding similar to "Ramleh." There is no change whatever in the original, distinctive quality which has attracted so many thousands of smokers to the "Ramleh." The general style of the package is also the same—the only change being in the name, which will hereafter be "Helmar."

We are giving wide publicity to the change in name, so that no "Ramleh" smoker may be deceived by imitative brands.

Should any of your customers ask for the "Ramleh," not knowing the name has been changed, you will, of course, give them the "Ramleh" under its new name "Helmar," and inform them of the change.

The same unrivaled quality, the "real tobacco taste" which brought you so many customers for the "Ramleh" will continue to please them and secure still more patrons for

15,000 AT PARAGON PARK ON COUPONS

Nantasket Summer Resort Is Crowded With Guests of the Boston American.

FREE SHOWS APPLAUDED

Fully 15,000 holders of SUNDAY AMERICAN coupons visited Paragon Park and Hostock's Animal Show Monday and Tuesday this week.

The work of the high divers, Mr. Speedy and the Norths, in the open-air circus is sending shivers through the crowds daily. Miss Norta's graceful diving from a height of fifty feet and her swimming stunts in the lagoon are considered by Manager Dodge among the best open-air features possible in a Summer park.

Marvellous Exhibition.

The Human Spider, who seems half man, half monkey, continues to gyrate upon his hundred-foot rope, and the remarkable use of his toes in climbing and hanging from the rope is regarded as the most marvelous exhibition of its kind.

A lady cyclist is engaged for the open air circus next week, who descends a hundred-foot incline at express train speed and, leaping a gap twenty-five feet across, plunges into the lagoon.

The SUNDAY AMERICAN coupon for next week includes admission to the park, a ride through the Coal Mines, admission to the "Human Roulette Wheel," the greatest laughing novelty of the year, and a trip to the beauty show.

Death-Daring Dive.

The contract with James Speedy, who dives from a height of 150 feet into thirty-six inches of water, has been extended, and he will remain at Paragon Park next week. Speedy is a world-beater at high diving. He performs twice a day, unhampered by weather or high winds, which is the more remarkable since the tank into which he plunges from the dizzy height is only fourteen feet long and seven feet wide. To miss by an inch as he launches himself into the air would mean certain death. The element of danger holds observers spell-bound.

STRIP SHIELD OFF POLICEMAN

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Charged with cowardice in fleeing from an armed man who had killed a woman, Patrolman Stephen S. Walsh was yesterday stripped of his shield, the emblem of protection for the public safety, and ejected from police headquarters. Commissioner Bingham gave the accused man every opportunity to justify himself, but when the disgraced patrolman was unable to do this he ordered an inspector to strip him of his shield and buttons and send him away.

The degradation of the patrolman followed the shooting of Esther Norling in Forty-second street last week by Frank Warner. It was alleged that Patrolman Walsh pursued the murderer, but turned and fled when Warner flourished his revolver at him. Allowed to escape in this manner, Warner entered the store of John C. Wilson and shot him mortally.

This is the first instance in thirty years of New York police department history that a member of the force has been proven guilty of cowardice.

VALUES WIFE'S LOVE AT $5,000

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 1.—Navy circles were stunned to-day by the rumor that the $10,000 suit brought against Lieutenant William P. Fogarty, U. S. N., assistant naval constructor on duty at this yard, by William Prosser, commissary steward on the prison ship Southery, charging the lieutenant with alienation of his wife's affections, was settled by the payment of $5,000.

The suit was the result of an alleged confession by Mrs. Prosser to her husband after he had discovered her registered under an assumed name at the Hotel Nether-lands, in Boston, May 25 last, at which place it is alleged she had gone to meet Fogarty.

NATIONAL STARCH COMPANY NEW YORK

LABOR NEWS

ALLIED PRINTING TRADES LABOR COUNCIL BOSTON, MASS. 96

The threatened national strike of lasters has been averted. Word was received by Charles Morris, New England organizer of the United Hatters, yesterday, from the national headquarters in New York that the Hat Manufacturers' Association had rescinded its decision to discontinue the use of the union label. The resolution adopted by the manufacturers to give up the label was to have gone into effect today, and the action if adhered to, would have resulted in a general strike.

LATHERS AID CARPENTERS.

Wood, Wire, and Metal Lathers' Union No. 72 voted last night to parade with the Building Trades Council Labor Day. The lathers voted to give its moral support to the members of Carpenters' Union No. 886, who are strike at a job on Albion street, Dorchester. It was reported that there are but fourteen lathers outside the union in Greater Boston. Unless delinquent members settle by next Wednesday night it will cost them $25 to be reinstated.

VOTE NOT TO PARADE.

Not to parade Labor Day was the action taken by Electrical Workers' Union No. 103 last night. Instead, the members will attend the outing of the State Electrical Workers' Unions at Hough's Neck in the afternoon. Peter W. Collins of Springfield, Ill., grand secretary, addressed the union. Four new candidates were initiated.

BARBERS PLAN SURPRISE.

Barbers' Union No. 182 promises to surprise the other unions with the uniforms to be worn in the Labor Day parade. The Ninth Regiment Band has been engaged for the occasion. Mayor Fitzgerald and Mayor White of Dover, N. H., have been invited to speak at the banquet to be held after the parade at No. 995 Washington street.

LABOR NOTES.

Peter W. Collins, grand secretary of the Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, addressed Electrical Workers' Union No. 104 (Bunker) last night. Mr. Collins, whose headquarters are at Springfield, Ill., will be here for two weeks. He will address the Central Labor Union next Sunday afternoon in Forresters' Hall, Washington street.

Painters' Union No. 11 will immediately go on picket to parade Labor Day at a meeting next Tuesday night.

Park Department Assembly No. 7,570, K. of L., is holding its annual outing today at Scituate.

The executive board of the United Hatters meets tonight to make further arrangements for the Labor Day parade.

'HELLO GIRL'S' WIT TRAPS TWO TRAIN THIEVES

CLAYTON, N. J., Aug. 1.—While railroad directors, police and citizens tried unsuccessfully for six months to apprehend the men who have been stealing baggage from the electric trains of the West Jersey and Seashore Railroad, Miss Josephine Siebert, a bright and industrious telephone operator, has the capture of two thieves to her credit.

A. F. Jenkins, editor of the Clayton Reporter, had his suitcase taken yesterday by two men, who jumped off a train at Woodbury. Mr. Jenkins discovering his loss, got off at Gladstone, the next station, where Miss Seibert is the telephone operator.

He told Miss Seibert of his loss and she immediately got busy. Telephone bells were soon ringing in every office in and around Woodbury.

"Call the Keith avenue ferry, Camden," she suggested.

"But I've no more change," Jenkins said. "I dropped in all the money I have with me."

"All right. I'll let you owe for a call to Camden," she replied.

The bells in the Camden office were soon ringing, the police notified and the two men were caught just as they were about to cross to Philadelphia.

The men said they were Edward Golding and George William. Their plan, they said, was to get on a train, ride a short distance and then jump off with whatever baggage was not carefully watched by the owner.

The police and rail road men give Miss Seibert credit for the capture, and say it was due entirely to her intelligence and the rapidity with which she worked.

SELL DAUGHTER TO CHINAMAN

GALVESTON, Texas, Aug. 1.—The sale of a beautiful girl, thirteen years of age, to a Chinaman, has been prevented by the arrest of her parents and the foreigner.

Delmus Nunez and his wife objected at first to the attentions of Joe Young, a restaurateur of San Antonio; but, being in straitened circumstances, they asked him what he would give for the child. He offered $2,000, but the parents held out for $3,000. The child will be taken from her parents.

A NEW 'JERSEY LIGHTNING' BUG

RIVERSIDE, N. J., Aug. 1.—Caleb Hatch of this place was out late with his bicycle with no lamp. Caleb himself tells this. Not caring to risk riding through town without a light on his wheel, he picked up a half-pint whisky bottle he found by the wayside and put a dozen or more fireflies in it. This he placed in front of his machine. The flashing of the "lightning bugs" as they moved about answered his purpose and saved him from arrest, the local policeman appearing to be satisfied when Hatch rode by with his wheel "all lit up."

JUMPS FROM FERRY INTO THE HARBOR

A man giving his name as William Smith, forty-eight years old, of New York City, jumped from the deck railing of the ferryboat Brewster yesterday afternoon just after the boat left Rowe's wharf. In a minute the deck hands had lowered a boat and rescued him. The man was turned over to Patrolman Fisher of Station 2 and sent to the City Hospital, where he will be examined as to his sanity.

TWO-CENT FARE IN CANADA.

OTTAWA, Aug. 1.—The Railway Commission has ordered the Grand Trunk Railway to have third class carriages put on its trains throughout the entire system in Canada, but gave it the right to appeal to the Supreme Court. This will mean a two-cent rate for Canadians.

BOLD THIEF WOUNDS AND ROBS DRIVER

Rochester, N. H., Hostler Has to Postpone His Wedding Scheduled for To-day.

BANDIT ESCAPES CAPTURE

ROCHESTER, N. H., Aug. 1.—Nursing two bullet wounds received in a fight with a robber and bewailing the loss of $200, Joseph McDonald, a hostler and driver employed here at the livery stable of Charles W. Lowe, has been compelled to postpone his marriage to a pretty Connecticut girl, which was to have taken place to-day.

Early to-day McDonald undertook to drive a supposed commercial salesman from Rochester to Sanford, Me. While nearing the little town of Eastport, Me., far away from any houses, the passenger proposed to pay for the rig, and pulled from his pocket a $10 bill.

McDonald took out his fat roll and started to make change, when the stranger grabbed the money and tried to jump. McDonald seized the man, and, drawing his revolver, fired twice, but missed each time. The husky robber wrested the gun from him and shot in turn twice at McDonald, hitting him each time, once in the right leg and again in the right foot. Then he made his escape.

McDonald is now at the home of his employer in Central avenue, while his bride-to-be is awaiting his recovery at the home of Arthur N. Brock, May street.

The police of New Hampshire and Maine are trying to find some trace of the pretended commercial traveler, who they think is one of the gang of thugs who beat and tried to rob aged Mrs. Abigail Wallace at at Farmington last Monday night.

VICTIMIZED BY WOMAN AGENT

Women living in Everett have complained to the police that they have been victimized by a woman who claims that she is an agent of an art company in Chicago which makes a specialty of teaching women to paint china.

Those women who say that they have given the agent various sums ranging from $1 to $5 say too that they have failed to receive the art materials with which the agent promised to supply them.

"I almost caught the agent," said one Everett woman. "I met her in Causeway street and charged her with being a fraud. She gave me back the $1 which I gave her. The police authorities have told me that the art company for which she claims to work has no existence and I wish to warn other women against paying out money to this alleged agent."

NEARLY LOSES HEIRESS BRIDE

CINCINNATI, Aug. 1.—Though a lawyer and clubman, A. J. Cunningham, Jr., lost his nerve and all his interest while eloping with Miss Myrtilla Dobbyns, an heiress of Proctorville, O., and all but lost his bride in consequence.

The two had successfully reached Ironton, O., and were in the office of the probate judge ready for the ceremony, when the telephone over the official began to ring. At the other end of the wire, thirty miles away, was Mrs. Dobbyns, who urged the judge not to issue a license for her daughter's marriage.

Dorothy Dix Says, "Negligee Manners Should Not Accompany Negligee Clothes," in the Seventh of Her

Ten Commandments for Summer Girls

THE seventh commandment of the Summer is this:

Look well to thy conduct lest the snapshot artist come upon thee unaware.

Why people should wear negligee manners and morals in the Summer as they do negligee clothes no one can explain.

One can merely assert that they do, and that, in especial, women who are refined and discreet and ladylike the balance of the year permit themselves during the dog days a latitude of conduct at which they must themselves be shocked when the Winter's cold has again congealed the self-respect.

This is great folly, daughter. A woman qualifies for membership in the Home for Incurable Imbeciles when she does a thing in August that she trusts everybody will have forgotten by December, because nobody ever does forget the things that we want them to forget.

The world has a long memory for our weaknesses and a short one for our virtues, and the only safe way to act is to so conduct ourselves that the reminiscences of our Summer outing won't be worth recalling.

Moreover, everywhere is uncomfortably close together in these times, and most people have the letter-writing habit. Don't think because you are off in the West climbing mountains or down in Maine on the seashore that the reports of your exploits won't travel to Squedunk.

You are sure to meet up with some woman who has got a cousin, or a cousin's cousin, in the town from which you came, or who knows somebody that you know would be interested in hearing of the time that you carried riding with a man from Boston and got lost, and didn't get home until 4 o'clock in the morning, and everybody was sitting up with their watches in their hand to see you come in.

Little Mrs. Flighty neglects her children while she spoons o n the gallery with young Golightly. In reality Mrs. Flighty may have meant no harm and done no harm; but none the less Mrs. Flighty has hurt herself in the popular estimation. A little figuring, daughter, will show you that this kind of a game is not worth the candle.—Dorothy Dix.

Spirit of Bravado

The spirit of bravado which enters into women at a Summer resort and makes them do foolish things that they would not dream of doing anywhere else would be funny if it was not tragic, for it is sad to see a woman risking so much for so little fun. Still, there is no denying that you do see it.

Timid, old married women, who haven't thought seriously of attracting man's attention for twenty years, perk up and get real frisky.

Young married women who are good and faithful wives at home enter into the most outrageous flirtations, while girls appear to look their maidenly reserve up with their furs and leave them behind them and permit familiarities from men that they would resent to the death in the city.

Doubtless the women who do these things have some code of ethics by which they justify their lapses to themselves, but unhappily other people do not take the same view of the situation.

If you will keep your ear to the ground or even hanging out of the window, you will have no difficulty in hearing just what the assembled company in a Summer hotel think of the way in which little Mrs. Flighty neglects her children while she spoons on the gallery with young Golightly.

There will also be added thereunto a few caustic remarks about that married woman, and there is sure to be some sympathetic lady who will feel it her sacred duty to tell Mr. Flighty when he comes up for the week's end, about his wife's goings on.

In reality, Mrs. Flighty may have meant be harm and done no harm. She may have been simply sitting up until midnight discussing the Railroad Rate bill with Mr. Golightly, or even listening to his rhapsodies about the girl whose picture is in the back of his watch and to whom he is to be married in the Fall, but none the less Mrs. Flighty has queered herself in the popular estimation, and the reputation of being a married woman, who is seeking the admiration of other men than her husband, and of only needing a temptation of being real gay, will follow her back home.

Not Worth While

A little figuring, daughter, will show you that this kind of a game is not worth the candle.

The same rule applies equally to any kind of a silly flirtation.

Summer is the time of irresponsible love-making, when no girl who has three grains of sense takes the sentimental speeches that a man makes to her seriously, lest you want to play the game with a light hand, daughter, and with most of the cards up your sleeve.

It isn't worth while—it is emphatically NOT worth while—to get yourself talked about for the sake of having some man whisper to you beside the murmuring sea that he never loved before, and then have seeking you through all the world, when he doesn't mean a word of it, and you know that he doesn't, and that it's nothing on earth but a Summer jolly.

If you go camping, daughter, don't forget to take along your feminine dignity, for his holding it as you walk along Tremont street.

There's no excuse for dopping over on the shoulder of a man who is nothing to you because you happen to be sitting next to him on a log before a wood fire.

There is no more reason for a man holding your hand in the woods than there is nature if you will, but don't go too far back.

If you haven't the strength to sit alone for a sanitarium and not a camping outfit for you.

Familiarities may at the moment seem to be justified by the time, the place and the situation, even the example of those about you, but before you indulge in them I impore you to reflect how you would like the men to regale their friends next Winter by relating these little episodes of a Summer vacation.

Beware Snapshots

Above all, daughter, beware of the snapshot artist.

It may seem to you, when everybody's sprite and free and up to date, that a picnic occasion, to be a merry jest to be photographed in one man's hat and coat and with his arm around you, or in some position that was really innocuous, but that in the cold, hard light of a picture looks compromising enough.

Think how you will enjoy having these pictures turn up on a man's mantle for the inspection and gibes of other men and other women.

Some of them may perhaps fall into the hands of your fiance and make trouble for you, for men have a small sense of humor where the women they love, and about whose honor they are sensitive, are concerned.

It is not enough, daughter, to be good in Summer.

You must so conduct yourself that you will make good in the opinion of those about you.

DOROTHY DIX.

Every Experience Has a Real Value

EVERY new phase of life and every experience have their use, and every condition in which we find ourselves and see ourselves as we look back, holds for us all some grand lesson if we will but search for it.

If we have an earnest desire to improve ourselves, we cannot do better than to meditate and reflect on every fresh incident in our lives. It is our positive duty to cultivate an earnest desire to know the meaning of every new turn and to detect the truth and the value from the lesson we may learn from it.

Also, we too frequently break the laws of life and Divine ordinance, and thereby suffer pain and defeat, those with a sensitive conscience do. When we make slips and blunders on the plane that led us to stumble, and the effects the fall produced, we shall find there is great benefit for us; for does it not show an earnest desire to avoid the same pitfall in the future, and a determination that we never give the matter another thought.

Every condition in which we find ourselves and see ourselves as we look back, holds for us all some grand lesson if we will but search for it.

Every one should be determined to see every day as a new one, and never cease wanting in something, or success would be impossible. Probe the matter to the bottom, and try to find out why we coveted other people's share of success. Remember, however, not to be discouraged at the inability on the cause that led to defeat. Failures are the first stepping-stones to higher things. We must learn to profit by them.

GRAPE JELLY

TO every eight pounds of fruit add a cof fee cupful of water; put them into a porcelain lined kettle and boil until quite soft; strain through a cloth strainer; measure the juice; squeeze and set aside an equal quantity of granulated sugar. Then boil the juice half an hour; add the sugar and let it boil five to eight minutes longer. All jellies to be good should have nearly all boiling done before sugar is added. Fruit that is partially ripe makes the prettiest jelly.

No. 16 Eureka street, Worcester.

TOMATO CATSUP

TWELVE ripe tomatoes, peeled; two large onions, four green peppers, chopped fine; one tablespoon of salt, three tablespoons of brown sugar, one tablespoon of ginger, one tablespoon of cinnamon, one tablespoon of mustard, one grated nutmeg, four cups vinegar. Boil one hour or till thoroughly cooked, or about three hours. Bottle while hot. This is very, very nice.

MISS N. J. PHELAN.

CANNED TOMATOES

SCALD the tomatoes, then remove skins and core. Simmer them in a porcelain kettle until it is almost full. Set on to fire and boil slowly until all are thoroughly heated through. Add no water to the tomatoes, as they draw plenty of juice while heating. Fill jars to overflowing while fruit is boiling hot, put on rubbers, screw top on tight. Set upside down until cold. They will never spoil if put up this way.

FIRST SIX COMMANDMENTS

1st. WHEN thou travelest, be not as the provincials are, for they are like unto the swine who hog it all, and they name is an abomination and a hissing in all men's mouths.

2d. BEAR in mind that thou art not the only pebble on the beach, and that the Summer hotel is not run for thy exclusive benefit. So shall the sick and the halt and the sleepless envy thee not their many meals.

3d. CONSIDER thy raiment, yet put not all thy trust in clothes, for, lo, the race is not always to the fashion plate, nor the victory to the millinery model.

4th. BOAST not of the splendor of thy home, nor of the number of thy man servants and thy maid servants, nor of the millionaires who wished to marry thee, for behold thy printing is written upon thy forehead so that the woman who runs may read, and she will know thee for what thou art.

5th. TAKE heed to thyself, and consider well what thou mayest do and what thou shouldst refrain from doing. Be not of those fooling virgins who sit in hammocks, nor of the gay ones who go in swimming.

6th. CONSIDER well thy conversation, for a woman standeth or falleth by her tongue.

MEN LIKE GIRLS WHO ARE NEAT

SCRUPULOUS neatness, even to the smallest detail, undoubtedly determines a man's decision regarding the marrying of a girl more than any other thing.

A good education, great ability, or even exceptional beauty, will not take the place of absolute cleanliness and tidiness. Most men will not overlook the lack of these things.

Men very quickly notice buttons off shoes, gloves, dress or coat, or soiled gloves, or spots upon the clothing, and are always prejudiced by them, because they probably indicate carelessness in the home. Nothing is more abhorrent to a man than untidiness in a girl.

Nothing is so disappointing to the male sex as to find that the girl from whom he expected so much is found wanting in the matter of neatness and orderliness.

Shortcomings in a very real thing to fall into. We ought all to be on guard against it. After all, it often dies that little details in the matter of dress. Here is a case in point.

Not long ago a young man had occasion to travel by an early morning train, overslept and got to know a pretty, well-dressed young lady who always went by the same train. He fell in love—but one morning he became disillusioned.

As she girl alighted from the train he saw a large hole in her stocking over the heel of her shoe. He was so particular about being neat himself that he could not stand untidiness in others. If this girl would be careless in small things, he argued, she would certainly be so in large, and careless about the home.

And he was perfectly right. All thoughts of asking her to share her life with him have vanished.

Slovenliness in dress, without doubt, indicates a similar defect in home life. We should all try to make a good impression on people.

The world judges a great deal by outward appearances. Any man fights shy of a girl who evidently cares so little about what people think that she will not go to the trouble of being neat. "Oh, it doesn't matter! No one will see!" the careless and untidy girl often exclaims. But people do see, and silently note all that is wanting.

If we desire to make a good impression

—if we desire men to respect and admire us—we must pay attention to the smallest details.

Carefully mended gloves, tidy shoelaces, scrupulously clean lace—even if it bear evidence of long service—all indicative of neatness and self-respect. A girl who possesses these delightful appearance will see that the home is scrupulously tidy and orderly.

There is an old proverb, "That it's bad to be poor, but it's doubly bad to look poor."

The girl who is tidy and neat in the little details of her dress will not show the empty state of her purse nearly so much as she who allows her clothes to become disgraceful and unkempt, and the tidy girl will certainly be far more likely to meet the well-to-do man, whose honest, strong hands will labor for her.

THIS MAY SAVE YOUR LIFE

"WE life-savers are put through a course of sprouts each season," said one of the life-saving crew, "I think bathers should be made to take a course, too. It is as necessary to know how to be saved as to know how to save.

"Take for instance, the life buoy, the circular one in general use. How many people know how to get into it? Hardly any.

"When you are in trouble, and this buoy is thrown to you, you shouldn't lift it up and try to put it over your head, for that only causes you to sink deeper. Get below more water, maybe to drown.

"You simply put both hands, take hold of the side of the buoy nearest you and press down upon it with all your might. Then the further side will fly up and you will be delivered, and, descending, find you neatly, and presto—you are safe."

Handy Things for Housewives to Know

ALWAYS pull the leaves that would be under water from the stalks of flowers before placing them in a vase. The leaves that stand above the water will be left sound, while the bark is peeled from such hard-stocked shrubs as roses, lilacs, and so forth, so that there is no bark left on the stems below the water, the flowers will imbibe the water. A little powdered charcoal in the water acts as a preservative. The ends of the stems should be split before placing in water.

To clean paint that is not varnished take a flannel and squeeze nearly dry out of warm water from the kitchen sink or tub. Apply to the paint, and with a little rubbing it will instantly remove grease, smoke and soil. Wash with warm water and rub dry with a soft cloth. It will not injure the most delicate color.

If you will select a well-shaped pineapple, top it off nicely, so as not to break it, and plant it in your back yard, you will have a fine start on a perfect plant that looks not unlike a palm for your sitting or dining room.

"FAREWELL celebrations of all sorts are such a mistake," Lady Caroom answered. "We have been so happy here, too."

"You brought happiness with you," Lord Arranmore said, "and you take it away with you. Elton will be a very dull place when you are gone."

"Your own stay here is nearly up, is it not?" Lady Caroom asked.

"Very nearly. I expect to go to Paris next week—at least the week after, in time at any rate for Bernhardt's new play. So I suppose we shall soon all be scattered over the face of the earth."

"Except me," Mrs. Bellingham interposed, ruefully. "I shall be the one who will do the vegetating."

Lady Caroom laughed softly.

"Foolish person! You will be with us two hours of London. You, none of you, have the slightest idea as to the sort of people we are going to meet on the journey from anywhere. The morning's papers are full of murders. We, on the train drink port wine and the women sit around and talk. At the evening arrival dinner and wait—and wait—and wait. Oh, that awful waiting. I know it so well. And it isn't much better when the men do come. They play, while waiting, at bridge, and a woman in the billiard room is a lost soul. Our hostess always hides my one directly I arrive, and pretends that it has been lost. By the bye, what a dear, little room this is, Arranmore. We haven't dined here before, have we?"

Lord Arranmore shook his head. He held up his wine glass thoughtfully, as though criticising the clearness of the amber fluid.

"No," he said. "I ordered dinner to be served in here because never our dessert I propose to offer you a novel form of entertainment."

"How wonderful!" Sybil said. "Will it be very engrossing? Will it help us to flirt?"

He looked at her with a smile.

"That, I think, Sybil," he said, "you how anxious you are to forget."

On Tenterhooks

She looked hastily away. For a moment Brooks must have seen, and his heart gave an unusual leap. Lady Caroom watched them both thoughtfully, and then turned to their host.

"You have excited our curiosity, Arranmore. You surely don't propose to keep us on tenterhooks all through dinner?"

"It will give a fillip to your appetite."

"Pshaw," he said, "as though I were ungrateful to try to make me eat more than I should. I am getting old, Caroom, and I found my mind in tears to-night because a positively could not get into my most becoming bodice."

"I can't imagine a more becoming one than this," Lord Arranmore said, with a courtly bow. "We are all of mind that you cannot wear it."

Lady Caroom's pretty subterfuge, but a subterfuge it remains," Lady Caroom answered. "Now be candid. What are you going to do to amuse us?"

He shook his head.

"To no such spur my effect. The slightest hint would make everything seem tame, Brooks. I insist upon it that you try my Johannesburg. It was given to my grandfather by the Grand Duke of Rhinstein, Grovel."

Brooks submitted willingly enough, for the wine was wonderful. Sybil leaned over to look at our bowl," she whispered. "What does he remind you of?"

Brooks glanced across the table, brilliant with its burden of old silver, of cut-glass and bottomless flowers. Lord Arranmore's face, nowwithstanding his ready flow of conversation, seemed unusually still and white—the skin drawn across the bones, even as Sybil had described. The appearance of his eyes, the glitter in his eyes, the icy coldness of his lack of coloring, though time after time he set down his wineglass empty, were curiously impressive. Brooks began to feel a new face, his eyes full of question.

"Metempsychosis," she whispered. "He is absolutely weird to-night. Do be sat and shriek."

The Toasts!

Lord Arranmore lifted a glass of champagne to the level of his head and looked thoughtfully around the table.

"Come," he said, "to ourselves generally? Collectively, Lady Caroom, Brooks and myself, delightful company with which you have peopled Elton, Sybil, may you charm society as your mother has done. Brooks, your very good health, and your wife's which have been a most welcome one.

We will drink to all those things," Lady Caroom declared, with enthusiasm. "But I am delighted, Arranmore, to find Sybil are beyond my hope of realization. She is far too clever to flourish in society. She will probably marry a bishop or a Cabinet Minister, become engrossed in theology or politics. You know how limiting that sort of thing is. I am in deadly fear that she may become humdrum. A woman who really studies or knows anything about anything can never be a really brilliant woman."

TOMORROW'S BEST BARGAINS IN BOSTON'S BIG STORES

THE following will be found Friday among the many attractive Old Home Week bargains:

At W. P. B. BROOKS & CO.'S you will find for 25 cents some generous sized sofa pillow covers, made of imported French cretonne, with a full double ruffle both sides of the same material. Not more than two will be sold to a customer.

GILCHRIST CO. will have for $3.49 each English covert coats, in the latest styles, just right for Fall and early Winter wear. They are twenty-four inches long in semi-fitted effect, with velvet collar and satin lined, in collar and collarless effects and are very smart. These are regular values at $10.

At E. R. KNIGHTS' is a small lot of dainty sample lingerie waists, prettily trimmed and finished with lace and insertion, long and short sleeves, $1.50 and $2. Will be sold to-morrow for $1.

SHEPARD NORWELL COMPANY will have some splendid half-price bargains to remnants of fall dress goods. It will pay the woman who does her own sewing to see if there is not something for her among them.

THE MODEL on Winter street will offer to-morrow, for the benefit of those who were disappointed in their last sale, a number of ladies' waists which have been slightly soiled by handling. These waists are $1.50 and $2 marked to 75 cents and another good bargain is a lot of 10 black peasantine pony coats, Skinner satin lined, marked from $15 to $5.95 for to-morrow.

McCARTHY'S lace store will have to-morrow fine white cerin net top laces, from four to six inches wide, marked down from 37½ to 12½ cents a yard.

JORDAN MARSH CO. will sell to-morrow a thirty-piece dinner set of the best semi-china, each piece prettily decorated with delicate floral sprays, handsomely traced with gold. The usual price of this set is $15, but it will be sold to-morrow only at $7.98 per set. Other perfect dinner sets are marked way below cost.

JAMES A. HOUSTON CO. will have 75-cent embroidered ruffled shirtwaist sets reduced for 39 cents; also a small lot of tape girdles, with hose supporters attached to front, for 25 cents.

O'CALLAGHAN'S Cloak and Suit Co. have an "Old Home Week" bargain in the form of chiffon panama. The cloth are 28 inches long, lined with guaranteed satin. The suits are trimmed in satin bands, and they come in plain colors and fancy checks. This is a chance to get a $18.50 suit for $8.75.

TIMOTHY SMITH CO. will have large size sanitary aprons, made of white with full skirt, finished with a deep flounce. The aprons are full sized in every feature, with ruffle of material and the sleeves are finished with cuffs. Fifty-nine cents is the special price.

VORENBERG'S have an attractive bargain in silver polish, consisting of two cans of Sil-ver-ine, Boyce's Al plate. You can get a set or six for to-morrow for 50 cents. The regular price was $1.

BACON'S Uptown Department Store will sell to-morrow ladies' all-linen 10-cent handkerchiefs for 6 cents.

FILENE'S will close out a few small lots of neck wear at prices that are worth a visit to the waiting room. Three $2.50 cream lace yokes will go at 98 cents; some $1.50 and $2 net yokes will be in the lot, will be priced at 75 cents, although they have sold for $2.50; 36-inch swiss embroidered veal collars will be sold at half-price, 28 cents, and there is some linen collar and cuff set that will be a bargain for the woman who gets it.

MacDONNELL'S Tremont Temple store offers one of their best selling and most popular 58-cent white lawn waists at 79 cents. Saturday morning these will be marked back to 58 cents each.

MILES OF AUTOS IN BIG OLD HOME WEEK PARADE

Gymkhana Sports, Horse Races, Athletic Games Feature Today's Lengthy Program

To-day, Massachusetts Day in Boston's Old Home Week celebration, the autoists have their turning, and thousands of sportsmen and lovers of the machine have flocked into the city to view the mammoth parade and the gymkhana sports on the Common.

Although high tide in the Boston observance was undoubtedly reached yesterday, when it is estimated that 1,000,000 people were in greater Boston and 200,000 saw the grand civic, trades and military pageant, there has been little perceptible slackening in the flow of the many railroads that is steadily flowing in the direction of the Hub, and the railroads to-day, as well as the trolley lines and other means of reaching the city, are taxed to their utmost capacity.

Hundreds of visitors who yesterday passed the day in the city have returned to their homes, but they have been replaced by an almost equally large number whose interest centres rather in automobiling and sports than in the parade feature of the week.

Big Parade at Noon.

To-day at noon, the largest and most interesting street exhibition of parading automobiles ever witnessed in Boston, starts from Copley square to follow this route: Belvidon to Tremont street, Temple place, Washington street, Summer street, Federal, Milk, Broad, State, Washington, School, Beacon and Charles streets to Commonwealth avenue, to Massachusetts avenue, Columbus avenue to Charles street, where the parade disbands to go into the Common to take part in the sports which begin at the ending of the parade.

The line is made up of five divisions, which include touring cars, runabouts, decorated cars, grotesque cars, cars driven by ladies and commercial vehicles. Prizes will be awarded in each division.

Caledonians Picnic.

Nor is the automobile the only feature of interest in Boston's big celebration. Beginning at 8 o'clock this morning, with the parade of the Caledonian Club and invited guests on the way to the annual picnic at Caledonian Grove, the program will be of varied nature and replete with interest to every visitor.

The big marine sporting event is, of course, the race of open fishing craft in Boston Harbor, off Boston Light, for the cup donated by Sir Thomas Lipton, sailed at 10 o'clock.

The open air horse show on the Charles River Speedway at 10 o'clock, together with the races there at 1 o'clock afford events of interest to every lover of horseflesh.

Following the gymkhana events on the Common at 2 o'clock, come the other athletic games at 3 o'clock, which thousands of people will gather to cheer the contestants.

Children to Have Romp.

At Franklin Park this afternoon, the children of the city hold full sway and the programme provided for their benefit, includes their own athletic games, a romp and picnic, will be a strenuous and healthgiving one. Thousands of little ones will return to-night much benefited by their hours of pleasure in the open air.

The old-time baseballists are holding forth on Peddock's Island, and, besides reminiscences of the diamond in decades past, these sporting events, including two free circus rentals, fills out a lengthy and enjoyable programme. Like many family reunions are being held in the city and surrounding places.

Events of Interest Planned for To-day

1 p. m., at Hotel Somerset—Luncheon to visiting officials and guests.

1 p. m., at Young's Hotel—Reunion of Shaw family.

1 p. m., Charles river speedway—Horse races.

2 p. m., on Common—Automobile gymkhana.

2 p. m., at Mechanics Hall—Free theatrical and vaudeville performances.

3 p. m., on Common—Amateur athletic events.

3 p. m., at 53 Mt. Vernon street—Mayflower day of Massachusetts Society of Mayflower descendants.

3 p. m., at Faneuil Hall—Chamberlain family reunion.

3:30 p. m., on Common—Band concert.

8 p. m., at 1,151 Washington street—Entertainment to Sons of Veterans.

8 p. m., at Mechanics Hall—Free theatrical and vaudeville performances.

SMALLPOX SCARES TOWN OF GROVELAND

GROVELAND, Aug. 1.—The discovery that half a dozen or more mill hands of South Groveland, who have been ill, supposedly with chickenpox, for some days past, are in reality suffering from smallpox, has thrown the town into an uproar.

The Selectmen and Board of Health have adopted stringent measures.

SUES WEALTHY WOOER; BROKE PROMISE TO WED

Nova Scotia Girl Seeks $50,000 Heart Balm from South Street Millionaire.

ALREADY HAD A FAMILY

Declaring that John F. Moore, the millionaire South street leather merchant and Sherborn Sunday School superintendent, had promised to marry her, although she alleges that he has a wife and children living, from whom he had not been separated, Miss Jessie B. McLellan, a twenty-three-year-old prepossessing girl from Nova Scotia, seeks to recover $50,000 for breach of promise.

Writs have been brought by the girl against the millionaire. One is for the amount, as she asserts, in grossly injuring and resenting to her that he had no family ties. The other suit is for his failure to lead her to the altar, as she is positive that he declared his desire to do. Each suit is for $25,000 each. The papers have been filed in the office of the clerk of the Superior Court of Middlesex County.

An attachment has been asked for to cover the amount of the damage claimed. Both of the principals in the case are sworn to secrecy today. It is known that they first met at Rhoboth, and according to the girl's statement, she was asked to marry Moore about July, 1906. Former Governor William L. Douglas is attorney for Miss McLellan.

The case has already created a sensation in circles where both Moore and the Nova Scotia girl are well known. No writ in the case kept out of the public eye that it was not known even that papers had been filed. Yesterday, lawyers for plaintiff and defendant appeared before Judge Sanderson and counsel for Moore presented a motion asking that the attachment be reduced to $25,000. After a short parley this was done.

CHILD BURNED; HAD SET BONFIRE

While at play with his baby brother, Francis Kempton, 2½ years old, thought it would be fun to start a bonfire in the rear of his home at No. 58 Burrell street, Roxbury. His clothing caught fire and he may not live.

Anty Drudge Gossips.

Mrs. Gossiper—"Yes, it's said they will be divorced. And after the way she's slaved for him, wearing out her life washing, and cooking, and cleaning. They say he's stuck on that pert Miss Sinamon, who looks as if she never did a stroke of work in her life."

Anty Drudge—"Oh, but she does work! She does as much washing and cleaning as Mrs. Neverrest, but she does it with Fels-Naptha, and doesn't wear herself out. If Mrs. Neverrest had used Fels-Naptha in her washing and cleaning, she would still be as pretty and fresh as ever, and wouldn't have lost her husband's love."

Does housecleaning mean to you a blistering fire in the kitchen and half-scalded hands? Why not try the modern way—the Fels-Naptha way?

Fels-Naptha soap, in cold or lukewarm water, will make your house spick and span. It will dissolve the smoke, grease and dirt on your windows without scouring—polishing them at the same time.

It will brighten paint or varnish on woodwork; freshen up the colors in oilcloth or linoleum; whiten natural wood floors. It is the ideal soap to clean rugs or curtains, as it removes grease spots and dirt of all kinds without harming the colors.

Fels-Naptha will do your housecleaning better in cold or lukewarm water than any other soap will in hot water. You avoid the necessity for a hot fire, and your hands don't become red and rough from constantly dipping them in hot water.

Then Fels-Naptha is a disinfectant and insecticide. Neither germs nor insects will infest a place where the cleaning is regularly done with Fels-Naptha.

Follow the easy directions on the red and green wrapper.

PRAISE FIRE DEPARTMENT OF WONDERLAND

The following letters prove conclusively the valuable services rendered by the Wonderland Fire Department in checking the spread of the disastrous fire at Revere Beach on Sunday evening last.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts.
Metropolitan Park Commission.
Congregational House, 14 Beacon street,
Boston, Mass., July 29, 1907.

Wonderland Amusement Company, Revere, Mass.

Gentlemen—At the meeting of this board held to-day, the following vote was passed:

Voted, That the thanks of this Commission be extended to the Wonderland Amusement Company and to the employees of said company who rendered such efficient assistance in the suppression of the fire at Revere Beach Bath House on the night of July 28th, and that the secretary communicate this vote to the company.

Very truly yours,
GEO. CLYMAN ROGERS,
Secretary pro tem.

Revere Beach, Mass., July 30, 1907.
To Mr. Manning and members of the Wonderland Fire Department.

Gentlemen—The undersigned firms and business men of Revere Beach, realizing the valuable services rendered by you in assisting the Revere Fire Department in successfully fighting the conflagration on Ocean avenue, last Sunday, wish to express their sincere appreciation of your work and tender their thanks.

Respectfully, John F. Slattery, Howard Trask, Henry Sandler, Mrs. W. Mcguinness, Arthur L. Norris, George P. Pyne, D. B. Hanson, Louis Bopp, Charles L. Ridgway, G. G. Dawson, Jno. J. Hurley, Arthur C. Kirby, Geo. R. Van Nest, Fred P. Hurley.

MAUD GREAT FAVORITE WITH THE CHILDREN

That the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN'S great comic section is a favorite with thousands of small people as well as with their elders is shown in a letter that is taken from among the thousands received in the Bright Sayings Contest. Frank Leslie, son of Mrs. J. W. Leslie, of No. 5 Alden street, Mount Medford, who is not yet four years of age, evidently seizes hold of the comic section the moment it comes into the house on Sunday and enjoys the antics of Maud, the Katzenjammers and the other fun makers. This is what Master Frank Leslie writes to the Baby Contest Editor:

"Frank saw Maud the Mule at Wonderland one day last week, and when he came home he asked me two or three times if it was the mule of the SUNDAY AMERICAN. Each time I told him I supposed so. I asked him what he thought about it. He said: 'Well, the color is not the same. You remember the Maud mule in the SUNDAY AMERICAN is a greyish color and Maude, the mute in Wonderland, is very dark.

"He then looked up the last SUNDAY AMERICAN and found Maud's picture. Coming to me with it, he said: 'Now, ma, see—this Maud in the picture, she is grayish and has white on her knees (referring to the white on the mule's body), and a white mouth and nose and white in her feet. That man down at Wonderland is mistaken. I guess he has the SUNDAY AMERICAN'S Maud mule, but he hasn't.'

"I think there is more than one Maud mule."

POLICE CLASH OVER REMOVING BOY'S BODY

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—In the presence of a large crowd hurrying to work, an unidentified eighteen-year-old boy was killed to-day by a Broadway car. After the body had been released it lay in the street for fifteen minutes, while police of two precincts argued which should take charge of the case as the accident happened on the border line. Motorman Rose, Rickard and Conductor Yates were arrested.

SWEPT DUST INTO STREET; FINED $2

Acting upon the suggestion that the Rev. Mgr. O'Callaghan's suggestion that the streets be kept in good condition Old Home Week, Judge Fallon in the District Court yesterday fined Victoria Dimaggio for sweeping dirt from her house, No. 132 Broadway, South Boston, into the street.

JIMMY BRITT WINNER OVER BATTLING NELSON

AFTER-FIGHT STATEMENTS.

BY JIMMY BRITT.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 1.—I knew I could do it and I did it. I was stronger than Nelson. I will fight anybody to the world.

BY BATTLING NELSON.

It was a good fight. Britt had it on me only in the last round, and he won.

BY REFEREE JACK WELCH.

I gave the only decision possible. Britt won decisively. He fought a great battle.

BY MANAGER BILLY NOLAN.

The decision was a fair one and the only possible one to render. Personally, I never saw Nat fight such a poor fight to all his ring career.

BY JOE GANS.

The proposed match with Nelson is off. I will fight Britt if satisfactory arrangements can be made.

By W. W. Naughton.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 31.—Jimmy Britt fought a masterly battle with Battling Nelson to-night, winning in every round after the eighth. In the opening round Nelson was staggered with a right on the jaw. After that the Dane pulled himself together and took the aggressive. He blocked Britt's body smashes with his elbows and used a high left hook that covered Britt's face with blood. From the fourth round to the seventh matters looked bad for Britt, as Nelson used a little right uppercut in the clinches and the native son's condition appeared to be giving out. The eighth round was fairly even, and after that Britt took a strong lead.

Britt Cool as an Iceberg.

He was as cool as an iceberg and his right hand deliveries were almost faultless. He caught the Dane on the chin again and again and had him covering many times. Britt's left also played havoc with Nelson's face, closing the right eye and flooding the nose and mouth with blood.

After the tenth round Nelson was leg weary. He seemed to figure on getting close enough to land a right-hand knockout, but Britt had the game well in hand and baffled him at every point. Two or three times when hard smashed with the right Nelson covered while the crowd stood and yelled.

Norseman Was Staggering.

In the early part of the final round Britt took matters leisurely, holding Nelson in the clinches so that the Dane could not score. Toward the end of the last round Britt had the Norseman staggering against the ropes. It was the best round the Britt ever fought, and he won the decision Britt easily took.

ROUND ONE—Nelson led with a left and the boys clinched. Nelson missed again. The Battler put a left and right into the body and Nelson missed a right on ribs. Nelson followed Britt around the ring. Britt swung a left into the body and rattled Nelson with a right on the ribs. The Dane staggered back and the crowd booed. Nelson came on with a fight and Britt swung a left to the stomach. It was a punishing blow. The boys broke from a clinch and Nelson landed a hard left with his elbow. They Bung together in a clinch. Britt swung a right left on the face and another left on the stomach. Nelson swung with a right and the blow went around the back of Britt's head. They were clinched at the bell. The round was in favor of Britt.

ROUND TWO—Nelson led with his left and Jimmy backed into a corner. Britt drove the left into the body and clinched. Each landed with the left, but Britt's blows found Nelson's body. Britt caught to a clinch and Nelson used the right on the ribs. Nelson stopped a left jab with his elbow. Britt swung a left and Nelson covering up as he went in. Britt put in a left body blow and Nelson missed with a right on the cheek. Nelson sent in a hard left on the cheek and Britt countered with both hands coming out of the clinch. The Dane drew away from a left swing. Nelson stopped two lefts with his face and Britt decked a left and a clinch. Nelson rammed in right uppercuts while Britt held on. Even round.

ROUND THREE—Nelson led, missed and jumped into a clinch. The boys parted and came to another clinch. After they broke Britt brought his right across and caught the Dane a hard crack on the jaw, the big crowd giving its approval of approval. The native son caught Nelson a hard left on the stomach. The Dane blocked another for the stomach and they again went into a clinch, from which Referee Jack Welch split them out. Nelson's elbows saved him from some hard body punches. He clinched, and while breaking caught Britt with a right and left uppercut. The native son got a left to the body at the bell. Even round.

Jim's Lips Showed Blood.

ROUND FOUR—Nelson came forth as a tract, and they were soon in a clinch. When they parted Britt sent the Dane's head back with two straight lefts in succession. Nelson got in a high left on the nose and Jimmy's lips showed blood. Nelson hit short with left for the body and drove in a punishing body blow with right over heart. The boys clinched. Nelson forced Britt around the ring, covering Jimmy's blows and sending in lefts that covered Britt's face with blood. Nelson tried to cover up in a clinch and Nelson rammed in rapping uppercuts, catching the native son under the chin. Nelson aimed to do his best in a mix-up. When he got up he went close and used both hands, uppercutting fiercely while Britt tried to cover up. Nelson's round.

ROUND FIVE—Nelson slipped under a left and they clinched. Welch broke them. Nelson crowded his man into a corner and got in a left swing on the head which brought Britt's blood again. Nelson kept forcing Britt, who swung his right into the Dane's low punch on the body but could not beat him back. Nelson got in left hook on the face, bringing blood. Britt backed around and then swung left and right for the face. They were good and clean smashes, too, but they didn't stop Nelson from forcing in. The Dane made use of his left solely, getting in hooks on the face and body. Nelson managed to put all his force into a right-hander and caught Britt on the jaw, but it did not keep him at bay. Britt was putting in right and lefts on the face at the gong. Even round.

ROUND SIX—Nelson, as usual, set the pace. Britt stepped to one side and landed with a left on the ribs, stopping Nelson, and they clinched. Nelson tried hard to dodge his opponent in the clinches. Britt covering up cleverly. After a break Nelson was short with left and right swings. Britt's second left to the face. Nelson followed Britt around, putting in a brace of lefts on the face. Jimmy swung left and right on the side of the head, but the Dane kept coming. Nelson got in close and used a left on the face and a right on the body. They landed again and covered, and Nelson tried uppercuts with both hands. Britt ducked through Britt's guard twice and sent the local man's head back. Nelson was short out of a clinch Britt was bleeding and Nelson swung as though tired. Britt freshened up just before the end of the round and landed with both hands on the face. Nelson's round.

ROUND EIGHT—Britt swung left into stomach and ducked Nelson's right. They clinched and broke up. Nelson put in a left on the face, Britt countering a fierce left with a hard right on the cheek. The Dane's crowd raised his enthusiasm from a left-hander. Britt caught Nelson a left in the face and followed with a left on the side of the head. Nelson was boring in and waiting to get started before beginning work. He came into a half dozen two or three-fisted swings. Britt rapped Nelson on the nose with the right, Nelson stopped. Britt caught Nelson a hard left in the stomach, and shot a left hard over the face as the round ended. Round even.

ROUND NINE—They went quickly into a clinch, from which they parted them. The Dane put in two left jolts to the face. Britt sent a left to the stomach. He stopped the next one with his elbow. Nelson forced the native son around, getting in a right on the cheek and as Nelson lowered his head in three left and right uppercuts. Nelson turned his head and took a right on the back of the head. His feet slipped but he straightened up quickly and went in again, using a right uppercut on Britt's chin when Britt tried to smother the Dane with a right on the jaw coming out of a clinch. Nelson covered his face with his forearm and Britt dodged away with both hands to the jaw. Britt caught Nelson on three clean-cut rights and had the best of the round.

ROUND TEN—Nelson swung his left into the stomach and they clinched. Nelson broke and the Dane landed his arm around. Britt tried to stop him with left swings. Nelson hit with a left to the face and Britt brought the left around on the face. There were some hard swings, which Welch had to break them. Britt clinched Nelson with arm and right on the chin. Nelson put in a very fast looking right on the face and Britt sent a hard left on the face with left, bringing blood. Nelson put a right to the face and Nelson acted in a tired way as he pressed in.

ROUND ELEVEN—Nelson went after Britt but missed with a left. They clinched and were punched on both sides of the face in a mix-up. Britt fought Nelson to a standstill and coming in with good clean rolling blows on face and body. Nelson fought in a shielding fashion and failed to land his right a number of times when he tried. Britt caught Britt's left hook on the nose and Britt swung the right to come on. Nelson swung the left air in his efforts to land and on the head both used their left hands as they broke and Nelson tilted Britt's head back and just before the round ended. Even round.

ROUND TWELVE—Britt swung a left and Nelson swung with left and right on the chin around and landed a straight left on the face, the nose while Britt was against the ropes. They came breast and breast and Nelson put a right to the stomach, a right to his knees in a mixup, but was up quickly and uppercut Britt's chin. Nelson landed two stinging lefts on the face and followed with a right to the body, but Britt kept after him. Nelson got a left on the nose and Britt smashed a hard left to the stomach. Nelson's knees sagged and Britt went at him and landed left and right on face. The spectators rose to their feet seeing Nelson on the ropes, but the Dane never ceased fighting. Britt's round.

ROUND THIRTEEN—Nelson proved to his knees in a mixup, but was up quickly and uppercut Britt's chin. Nelson landed two stinging lefts on the face and followed with a right to the body, but Britt kept after him. Nelson got a left on the nose and Britt smashed a hard left to the stomach. Nelson's knees sagged and Britt went at him and landed left and right on face. The spectators rose to their feet seeing Nelson on the ropes, but the Dane never ceased fighting. Britt's round.

ROUND THIRTEEN—Nelson proved to his knees in a mixup, but was up quickly and uppercut Britt's chin. Nelson landed two stinging lefts on the face and followed with a right to the body, but Britt kept after him. Nelson got a left on the nose and Britt smashed a hard left to the stomach. Nelson's knees sagged and Britt went at him and landed left and right on face. The spectators rose to their feet seeing Nelson on the ropes, but the Dane never ceased fighting. Britt's round.

ROUND FOURTEEN—They rushed into a clinch before a blow was struck and Nelson was hurled to the floor. Britt drew away from Nelson's blows and caught the Battler on the cheek with rights. Nelson was beat on landing a right and ran into trouble several times while trying it, his own head being knocked from side to side by Britt's punches. Britt was by far the cooler of the pair, dashing out of right places and hitting cleanly, while the Dane floundered. Nelson scarcely Britt's face. Though It was accidental. The men shook hands as they broke. Britt swung a stinging left on the Battler's cheek. The Battler rushed Britt along the ropes, swinging wildly with the right. Britt's round.

ROUND FIFTEEN—Nelson forced Britt around the ring. Jimmy stood and swung a left that glanced off the Dane's chin. Nelson blocked a left body punch and turned Nelson half around with a left hook to the face. Britt got in a snappy right that caught the side of the Dane's head, and swung hard left on the cheek. Nelson kept following Britt around. Britt was clinched when pressed and held the Battler so that he could not be hurt. Britt's round.

ROUND SIXTEEN—They came into a clinch, Britt getting in a right to the body a few percent before breaking. There were two or three clinches from which Welch had to break them out between the clinches. Britt ran his left to the face and Nelson fought fiercely when they could get close together, sending in uppercuts that Mr. Britt under the chin. Britt broke away and prodded the Dane's bruised face with straight lefts. Britt's round.

ROUND SEVENTEEN—Nelson led off with a straight left on the face and they broke. Nelson's blows stopped on the body blow. Britt swung a hard right on the face and took a light punch on the ribs in return. Welch had to part them as they clinched and Nelson put a left hook and snapped the right to the jaw, but Britt was not much worse behind it. Britt went close and prodded the Dane with both lefts. The Dane's right eye was all but closed. Britt drew back from Nelson's left and smashed his left in again on the Dane's damaged nose, bringing a flow of blood. Nelson tried to cover up, but Britt found opening for both hands, getting Nelson's face with blood. Britt's round.

Battling Nelson Weary.

ROUND EIGHTEEN.—Britt danced lanck, and Nelson came at him, but he kept out of the Dane's swings. Occasionally Nelson came into range Britt shot a left or right to the face. Britt was very cool and the Dane, with his swollen face, seemed both tired and arm weary. Britt made Nelson bad wag once or twice with swings with both hands. This was a clinch, in which Nelson appeared for the first time to be holding Britt. Britt ripped a left into the stomach and they clinched again. Then Nelson's head went back twice again from straight lefts. Britt put in a left to the round. Britt's round.

ROUND NINETEEN. They began outfighting. Britt had the better of the exchange, landing with both hands. Britt's left was now waiting for Britt's head and typ-ped it with him, but even at that Britt kept beating him to it. A right from Nelson crashed on Britt's ear and Britt came back with a right on the jaw. Nelson kept following Britt but he received far more than he gave. Britt got in more than telling right on the jaw. Britt's round.

ROUND TWENTY—and last—They shook hands. The Dane led short with the left and took a left jolt on the jaw. They broke and Britt sent a left to the stomach. One clinch followed another. Britt holding the Dane so that he could not score. Between clinches Britt used a free left on the Dane's face. With both men in a clinch separating Britt was fighting very leisurely and taking no chances. Whenever the Dane missed Britt tilted Nelson's head with an uppercut coming out of a clinch and then swung a left on the jaw. After the next break Britt got in two lefts and two rights on the face and followed with an extra hard left on the jaw, which sent Nelson sag ging to the ropes.

LAWSON DOES WELL IN MEET AT READVILLE

Arnold Lawson was the conquering hero at the matinee of the Gentlemen's Driving Club of Boston at Readville track, as in both races that he started horses he carried off the blue ribbons, though not without strenuous efforts and skilful reinmanship.

Three out of the four regular events were spill-heats. Avenew being the only one to have an easy passage to the winning. It looked like Frank Hall's star trotter, Lexington, would be compelled to bow to defeat, but he came back gamely in the third heat, and pulled off the victory by only a very specific drive.

On account of the runner accompanying him pegging out, Mack Hall would not try to do his best going home, so that the spectators had to be content with 2:18¾. It was the same with George Hall's pacer, Cinch. Hall worked hard, but the steed not knew better than to hurry, hence the time was 2:17.

Arnold Lawson felt down hearted that Townsend Keeper got a record of 2:21, as he wanted to take him to the Cleveland matinee meet and one day, and now he will have to be pointed for the 2:19, and July 31 is the day that record records at the matinee rounded. Summary:

2:19 Class, Trotting, Purse $1000.

CONNOLLY AND CARROLL GO TO DRAW

PROVIDENCE, August 1.—Brooklyn Johnny Carroll and Bartley Connolly, of Maine, fought a ten-round draw at the Standard A. C., Lymansville, last night, on account of a break-down on the railroad the attendance was smaller than usual, and the bout was shortened to ten rounds.

In every session there was wicked fighting with Carroll doing the forcing.

Both boxers were constantly trying for a knockout and Carroll missed by a hair several times in putting Connolly away.

Connolly was the heavier and used cunning tactics, opening Carroll's eye in the fifth round.

Carroll broke his left hand early in the bout and it was practically useless to him for the rest of the distance. He washed his Connolly, notwithstanding his handicap, and had the Maine boxer clinched close at every opportunity.

Connolly refused at first to go on with the bout till he was assured that he would be properly recompensed and delayed the match.

WHITE CAR WON HOWER TROPHY

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—H. K. Sheridan of the Cleveland Automobile Club won the Hower prize yesterday by arriving at Buffalo on schedule time in his 30 horsepower White steam runabout. His sole opponent, Edward Leibbach, in G. S. Smith's 35 horse-power Studland-Dayton runabout, arrived thirty-five minutes late on account of a broken front spring. Yesterday's run was from Syracuse to Buffalo, a distance of 163 miles, for which eight and one-half hours was allotted as the running time. Sheridan arrived at Buffalo in ample time and was greeted by a big crowd of enthusiasts who were waiting for him at his checking-in station. The odometer on his car shows that he has traveled 2,000 miles since he left Cleveland at the start of the annual tour of the American Automobile Association on the morning of July 16. The last 480 miles of this was made with an observer in the runabout who weighs 208 pounds.

BRADLEY GOES TO HOSPITAL

CLEVELAND, August 1.—Bill Bradley, third baseman of Cleveland was removed to a hospital last night with well-developed symptoms of typhoid fever. He came home from Albany, N. Y., last Sunday night.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 1.—This afternoon's game will wind up the series between the Doves and the Pirates. It now stands three to one in favor of the home talent.

Pat Flaherty, the former Pirate twirler, will be on the firing line for the Bostons this afternoon, while Doggiely, the former Quaker, will probably be given another chance by the locals.

The Bostons lost both games of the double-header to the Pittsburgs yesterday. The score of the first contest was 7 to 4, and the second, which lasted only seven innings by agreement was captured by the Smokestowners, 15 to 2.

Willis was on the rubber for the home team and was batted freely.

Young went in for the second game, and was just all over the lot. On the other hand Camnitz was sort of a puzzle to the visitors.

In the ninth of the first game Bates was hit by a pitched ball, and rendered unconscious. Randall took his place in the second game. Randall was severely injured trying for a low fly, and Sweeney was substituted. Score:

This afternoon's game will mark the end of the series between the Naps and the Pilgrims. The visitors have only taken one out of the three played, but it is a very close one to the locals. The Naps are only a few points behind Chicago and Detroit, first and second respectively in the race, and every win brings them nearer to the pennant, while with the locals a triumph really only means a possible chance to someday get out of the second division.

Jesse Tannehill may again try this afternoon to conquer the Naps, while "Dusty" Rhoades will probably do the twirling for the Forest City team.

Through an unusually poor decision by Umpire Loughlin, the Boston lost yesterday's game to Cleveland, 4 to 2.

"Silk's" poor decision came in the eighth, when, with three men on bases, Congalton hit to Joss. The latter threw to Catcher Clarke to get Hoyt, who had previously batted for Powell and singled. Hoyt made the plate easily, but "silk" yelled, "out." Turner made a grand double-play off Unglaub, ending inning.

Tannehill started to pitch for Boston, but four runs were made off in the first inning, and he was taken out of the box. Powell, who relieved him, did not allow the visitors a run.

Joss pitched great ball for the Naps until the seventh inning, when the Bostons found him and scored two runs. The score:

SCOTCH GAMES HELD TO-DAY

The Boston Caledonian Club to-day celebrates its fifty-third anniversary with its annual "Scotch picnic" at Caledonian Grove, West Roxbury. Thirty-seven events will be decided, as well as several special features, one of which will be the finish wrestling match between Jim Smart, of England and John Perelli of Italy, while the other will be the attack on the three-mile running record by Alfred Shrubb for the extra purse offered by the club.

In addition to those there will be a football tournament between teams selected from the Clan Graham of New York city, Hopedale Rovers, Fore Rivers, McGregors, Hopedale and the Riverdales of Brighton, for a set of gold medals, which will be presented to the members of the first and second teams.

Some of the pro athletes who will take part in the various events are Tom Kendall, of Providence, R. I.; Joseph Greenlaw, Ed. Hines, Billy Manning, Fish Marcin, Tom Gorman, Jack Hayes, Jack Spring, Bart Sullivan, Frank Kanaly, Tipple, McLean, Floyd Doughty, Tom Williams, Sammy Meyers, Crooks of Fall River, Bob Bolton of New York, Clifford of Philadelphia, and others in the runs, with Shrubb as the star in the three-mile run in an effort to break a record.

The field events there will be Marsh, Guertin, Kappaun, Cameron, McNeil, Mead, Mahoney, Quinn, the Harvard instructor; Crawford and Ellis.

LITTLE FOLK FETED TO-DAY IN CAMBRIDGE

University City Observes Children's Day of the Old Home Week Celebration.

This is "Children's Day" in the Cambridge celebration of Old Home Week, and the youngsters are being royally entertained.

One of the biggest entertainments for the children was instituted by Rev. Fr. John A. Crowe, pastor of the Church of the Blessed Sacrament. Fr. Crowe invited every child in the University City to his lawn party which is being held on the Erie street grounds, Cambridgeport, and judging by the large number present and judging by the large number present and the fun they are having, everything is working out nearly as well as the youngsters in the city of Cambridge has accepted the invitation.

Among the features provided for the little ones are the merry-go-round, the African dodger, the swings, donkey and pony carts, and a big tent filled with the Punch, Judy, Craigie Trio, Keefe and Coughlin, illustrated songs, Patrick Angelo, comic singer, and Barkeley and Cullen, specialty artists, as the chief attractions. At 5 o'clock a procession takes place, the aeronaut being Professor Joseph La Rouz.

In the city building, Brattle Square, the children are tendered an entertainment by Women's Relief Corps, No. 9, Past 30, Daughters of Veterans; the ladies of the G. A. R.; Church Ben Hur Tent, 98, and Colonel Thomas Wentworth Higginson Camp, Sons of Veterans, beginning at 10 o'clock A. m. At the same hour children's parties take place in the Auditorium, Lowell Association, Central Square, Cambridgeport, under the auspices of Women's Relief Corps, No. 27; Tent 4, Daughters of Veterans; Post 30, G. A. R., and Tent 6, Ladies of the Sons of Veterans, and in G. A. R. Hall, East Cambridge, where the children are entertained by Woman's Relief Corps, No. 68; Daughters of Veterans, Post 6, and Tent 20, Daughters of Veterans; Post 57, G. A. R., and the Spanish War Veterans.

Among the artists who take part in the entertainments are Miss Hilda Chamberlain, whistler; Mr. S. Wilson Bailey magician; George Cunes, dancing, music and song, diverting the children and the spectators by the children are also on the program. At the close of the parties George Close, the candy man, is to distribute sweetmeats for the little ones.

After the children's parties comes the Baldwin procession in Cambridgeport, and Professor Joseph La Rouz, the noted French aeronaut and inventor, will perform his famous bomb torpedo act.

This evening the Cambridge lawn party will be one of the principal attractions. A feature of the evening's party will be a 500-foot slide for life by the "Great Elwyn," and an exhibition on the bounding wire by Professor Leo White, "King of the Bounding Wire." Fireworks will also be a band concert, dancing and fireworks.

How Is This for Logic?

It's the Red-Dollar-Sign Kind That Mr. Whitney Passes Out to You

Copyright, 1907, by American-Journal-Examiner

"There is no politics in this question of reciprocity," said Henry M. Whitney in a public speech last Tuesday.

And yet Mr. Whitney is making reciprocity the basis of his political campaign for Governor.

Only a few days ago Mr. Whitney declared that the formation of a railroad monopoly in New England was NOT A POLITICAL QUESTION and therefore COULD NOT BE AN ISSUE IN THIS CAMPAIGN.

Long experience in manipulating Legislatures and forming trusts has convinced Mr. Whitney that the people are easily fooled.

Logic is not necessary. Any sort of clap-trap will do, in Mr. Whitney's estimation. All that is necessary is to hold the dollar sign up in front of the politicians, and then watch them hunt for the hidden treasure.

When Mr. Whitney made his wise remark about reciprocity he was addressing the business men of Waltham. The other speaker on this occasion was the Hon. "Sam" Powers, who, like Mr. Whitney, is in the business of managing public service corporations and is therefore a politician.

Mr. Powers is president of a large street railway system. He is also the representative of the Telephone Trust. He is the man who is helping the Highway Commissioners to save the officers of the Telephone Trust from having to tell what politicians they hire to cheat the public, and how much it costs them.

Mr. Powers declares that such questions as "Why is John H. Lee on the telephone company's payroll?" "How much does he get?" "What other politicians are carried there?" "How much has the telephone company spent for political purposes?" "Who have free 'phones?" etc., are NONE OF THE PUBLIC'S BUSINESS.

Mr. Powers is a Republican. Mr. Whitney professes to be a Democrat.

Of course, they are warm personal friends. Why shouldn't they be? They are playing the same game.

Is there any difference politically between the Hon. "Sam" Powers and the Hon. Henry M. Whitney? Hardly. The difference is in degree only. Mr. Whitney has succeeded in making more money by exploiting the public than has the Hon. "Sam" Powers. That is all.

Men like Powers control the Republican party of Massachusetts.

Men of the same type, but of less ability, control more than half of the Democratic party of Massachusetts.

Neither the Republican party nor the Democratic party will stop the legalization of a privately-owned railroad monopoly in New England.

YOU know that.

You KNOW that the Republican majority in the Legislature will legalize the monopoly, by hook or crook, and the Republican Governor will sign the bill, or at least permit it to become law.

You know that the same thing would happen with a Democratic Governor, whether Henry M. Whitney is the man or not. JOHN F. FITZGERALD OF BOSTON WOULD SEE TO IT THAT THE BOSTON MEMBERS OF THE LEGISLATURE GIVE THE CORPORATIONS WHAT THEY WANT, JUST AS HE DID THIS YEAR.

The Independence League is the only political organization in Massachusetts that stands squarely in front of the Standard Oil raiders and says: "Hands off!"

Do you want to see Boston no longer the centre of trade east of the Hudson River?

Do you want the railroad lines to converge at New York instead of at the metropolis of New England?

Do you want the phrase, "The Hub," as applied to Boston, to become merely a myth, a joke, a relic of past glory?

Do you want the Standard Oil Company OF NEW YORK to dictate your freight rates, to say which ports shall be allowed to grow and which shall be "punished," to say which manufactures shall be encouraged and which shall be choked off in favor of some trust-owned Western rival?

You DON'T!

This is what Mr. Mellen, Mr. Whitney and Mr. "Sam" Powers would like. It is WHAT YOU WILL GET if you vote with the non-partisan trust-alliance known as the Republican and Democratic parties.

The ONLY thing that will STOP the merger this year will be a big vote for the candidates of the Independence League.

Isn't that so?

Now, honestly, ISN'T it so?

Southern Railroad Smoke Is Clearing

By Prof. Frank Parsons

A TREATY of peace, or a truce at least, has been made in the North Carolina railroad war.

Thanks to a wideawake and vigorous Governor, the State has gained a signal victory over the Southern road. The corporation has agreed to obey the law pending its construction by the Supreme Court of the State and the United States Supreme Court.

This is as it should be. It is absurd that a circuit judge should hold up the government of a State and issue an injunction forbidding the State courts and authorities from the Governor down from enforcing the laws of the State which they were elected to enforce and have taken an oath to enforce.

But is it not also absurd for the Federal Government to pretend to enforce the National Constitution and yet allow State laws infringing the rights of property guaranteed by that Constitution to be put into effect and enforced against individuals and companies for months or years, perhaps, while suits are pending in the courts?

Suppose a State should pass a law contrary to the Constitution before the United States Supreme Court could reach a decision in the case, most serious damage and even ruin might result to individuals and corporations who would be without redress, for no damages could be collected from the State.

It is absurd for a judge to enjoin a State government, and it is also absurd for a State to enforce a law that may prove wrongful, without provision for redress in case the law is not upheld.

Would it not be well for State legislatures when enacting laws that may be found to conflict with the Federal Constitution to provide for redress, or else put the date for the law to take effect some distance ahead, and in the meantime ask the Federal Supreme Court to give an opinion on the validity of the law, so that the public may know it is good when it goes into effect?

Perhaps it might even be advisable to amend the National Constitution so as to make a State liable in damages to persons injured by the enforcement of laws found to be contrary to the Federal Constitution.

Still another question of colossal proportions looms out of the smoke of conflict in North Carolina.

It is this: Are not the big roads national interests, which should be subject to Federal regulation of rates, but to State rate laws?

Why should State passengers pay 2 or 2½ cents a mile while interstate passengers in the same trains, riding similar distances only crossing a boundary, pay 2½ or 3 cents a mile?

Suppose the inhabitants in each block or each ward in a city had the power to fix street-car fares for their territory. What would be the condition of street railway fares in our big cities?

The cases are not wholly parallel, but there is a valuable suggestion in the comparison.

Street railways running through two or more cities and towns are recognized in Massachusetts and other States as State interests, and their fares are subject to regulation by State authorities.

Should not railroads running through two or more States be recognized as national interests and the whole rate question in respect to them be subject to systematic and complete control by a competent Federal authority?

THEY TRY TO EARN MONEY FOR THE VACATION

Assorted Summer Fiction

By Wex Jones

A SEA STORY:

THE good ship Fair Wind was bowling along before the nor'west trade. The captain was in the galley peeling potatoes for the men's dinner; the mate was swabbing down the poop; the cook was shooting the sun and the apprentices were merrily shooting holes in the skylight with chunks of plumduff.

"There she blows!" cried the man in the crow's nest.

Instantly all was excitement.

"There what blows?" yelled the skipper.

"The wind," answered the lookout, with a hoarse laugh.

The captain burst into tears.

"Kidded aboard my own ship," he wept, but his tears were interrupted by a wild yell from the forecastle.

"Land ho!"

"Whereaway?" cried the skipper.

"At the bottom." A sneering laugh from the hands.

"Fooled again,' said the captain tearfully. And with a plunge over the side he was gone.

A LOVE STORY:

"I HAVE something to say to you, Amanda."

The speaker was a handsome youth of some twenty Falls.

"Spiel," said the lovely girl by his side.

"Will you be mine?"

"Why should I be yours?" retorted the girl.

Claude Phosphate pondered.

"I dont' know," he finally replied.

"Neither do I," said Amanda.

"Isn't that reason enough?" asked Claude.

"Sure."

"Then you will be mine?"

"Well, I guess k-not.'

"You won't do a thing there's no reason for?" stammered Claude.

"Then you are false—false to the traditions of the Summer girl."

"Naughty Claude, to say such things about your Amanda."

"Then you will——"

"Sure, I was only kidding you."

An Appeal to Elks

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1907, by American-Journal-Examiner

SECRET societies or orders of men banded together for strength to carry out good or bad purposes, have always existed, and always will exist. The oldest of these orders is the "Freemasons."

It is a great and wonderful society, and any man who lives up to its obligations must be a worthy citizen, a good friend, a noble husband, father, and Christian.

That many Knights Templars do not carry out their obligations reflects not on the order of Masons, but on the individuals. A younger society of men, organized for worthy purposes, is known as the Elks. It is composed of representative American men, and its objects have been benevolent and charitable, its charities being many and unostentatious.

When the term "representative American men" is used it stands for all that is strongest and best in the race of man up to the present plane of evolution. Nowhere in the world can be found so many men who are free from the weaknesses and vices of older lands as here in our virile New World.

The Elk's Tooth

THEREFORE, it is to be regretted that such men should forget the obligations of the stronger toward the weaker, and that the emblem of the Elks should lead to the threatened extinction of a beautiful and harmless animal.

The emblem is an elk's tooth.

It would answer every purpose were this emblem made of wood, metal or precious ore; but through a lack of thought, perhaps, rather than a lack of heart, the Elks have permitted the slaying of thousands of the picturesque and gentle animals that the teeth may be obtained for the order.

It seems incredible that big, brave men, full of charitable and kind impulses, as the majority of them are, could permit such heartless slaughter for so trivial a purpose.

Yet more incredible does it seem that a protest against the slaughter of the elk and a plea for the substitution of an artificial tooth in the society emblem should meet with a howl of angry disapproval from the order.

In this hour and era of great issues, when the country needs the co-operation of all loyal citizens to carry it over an impending crisis, of world-changing commotions, it is disheartening to find an order of grown men who will waste time and vitality in a quarrel about an animal's tooth for personal adornment. And it is little short of disgusting to hear these men contend for the right and privilege wantonly to destroy a harmless and gentle animal that its tooth may decorate their emblem.

If this is masculine strength where is feminine weakness? Still more disheartening it is to read the following in the American Press Association:

EL PASO, Tex.—The El Paso Elks gave a bull fight last night in the Mexican ring across the river to their friends. Four bulls were killed and the Americans displayed much skill in handling the banderillos, swords and capes.

Somehow the thought that these great, splendid Western men, who are the bone and sinew of America, can descend to the barbarism of ancient Spain for their amusement and make bloodshed and slaughter features of the Order of the Elks is little short of appalling.

It lessens one's respect for American manhood and discourages one's faith in the progress of the race.

A Backward Step

IT marks a path of digression for the Elks, a path backward to the mouldering old past, where war was man's whole business and cruelty his diversion, where Might ruled, and where all things were helpless in the hands of the strong, and no law existed which gave redress for wrongs or protection for helplessness.

Any organization of men which does not stand for three of the great principles of life, Humanity, Peace and Helpfulness, had better give up its charter and efface itself from the observation of the world.

It has no right to rank with worthy societies and to meet in centres of civilization.

Every self-respecting Mason and Odd Fellow in America ought to send a letter of protest to the Elks. Surely in that large society there must be men who would listen to such a protest.

The Land of Opportunity

THERE are great things to be done in America. Never before did a land offer such magnificent opportunities for its citizens to make an ideal country as America offers.

We have every kind of climate which the whole remainder of the world can offer.

We are free to worship and free to talk of our individual creeds.

We can make this country a Paradise for its own citizens and a haven of hope and refuge for the victims of tyranny in other lands if we will. But it requires the united efforts and the high ideals of all its best and strongest men and women to accomplish this end.

The Elks are setting a bad example for the whole world. They are standing for selfishness, cruelty and primitive ideals of sport. They are cultivating vicious and bloodthirsty impulses in the minds of the thousands of spectators who regard them as an order to be respected and emulated.

Shame on you, Elks of America.

You are leading your country backward instead of onward and upward.

Right about face, and march into line with progress.
